EVERYONE'S HAPPY—INCLUDING TEACHERS, for today marked the final session of school for some 5,700 East Liverpool students. These second grade boys at Taft raced happily past Miss Sandra Osborne of East Liverpool, a Kent State University student who has been doing practice teaching this quarter. The girls are a little more restrained, but just as glad the term has ended. Mrs. Margaret Thompson, the regular second grade teacher standing in the doorway, looks like she's ready to cheer, too.

Ware Locals Name 40 For 70th Session

Union's Convention To Open On July 6 In California City

Thirteen East Liverpool district locals have elected 40 members as delegates to the 70th annual convention of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters, which will open Monday, July 6, at the Lafayette Hotel in Long Beach, Calif.

The IBOP said 200 delegates are expected. Fifty-eight resolutions, most of them proposed by local unions, will appear in the printed program. Others will be dropped into the hopper at the convention.

The union's delegates will be welcomed to the California city officially in ceremonies at 9 a. m. on the first day of the convention. Committees also will be announced at the opening session.

The convention generally remains in session a week, so the adjournment probably will come about Friday, July 10, or Saturday, July 11. The IBOP said some delegates will travel across the continent by air or train, but many others are expected to make the trip by auto.

E. L. Wheatley, international president, will preside.

Delegates from East Liverpool locals are:

Local 9, Generalware: Frank B. Brown, Paul J. Hart, Floyd Jividen and William Watson; Local 16, Saggermakers: William M. Brown and Willis Ward; Local 86, Warehousemen: William C. Barrett, George T.

Warmup To Continue Along With Showers

If the Ohio weatherman is as accurate this week as he was last week then the Tri-State District will enjoy much milder temperatures through Wednesday.

The forecaster hit in on the nose when he predicted the recent chilly spell and now the mercury is expected to average three to four degrees above normal over the weekend, turning a little cooler Monday, but followed by rising temperatures and humidity Tuesday and Wednesday.

But every ointment has its fly and showers are predicted almost daily through the period, and most frequently on Sunday and Monday.

The warming trend began Thursday, which had a high of 74, and it had reached 79 at noon today. The downtown had a 45 at 6 a.m. and tonight's low range will be 50 to 56.

Youth Admits Killing 5

Ex-Local Man's Murderer Held

A slightly-built 19-year-old youth arrested at Kalamazoo, Mich., has admitted the slaying of a former East Liverpool man last Saturday during the hold-up of an Elkhart (Ind.) service station, along with the killings of four other persons, Kalamazoo police said late this morning.

Larry Ranes of Kalamazoo has confessed to the bludgeoning slaying of Charles Edward Snyder, 33, of Granger, Ind., during a $150 Memorial Day hold-up at the service station where Mr. Snyder was employed, the Kalamazoo authorities said. Mr. Snyder resided in East Liverpool most of his life, moving to the Indiana city only recently.

KALAMAZOO police said Ranes made the admission of the five slayings today. He had been arrested Thursday night on a tip in the slaying of a school teacher.

The teacher, Gary Albert Smock of Plymouth, Mich., had been killed by a hitch-hiker, Kalamazoo police said.

Sgt. Karl Lutz of the Michigan State Police said Ranes readily admitted killing Smock, then volunteered that he also had killed Mr. Snyder in the holdup of the gasoline station

Low Rate In Roseto, Pa.

'Peace Of Mind' Curbs Heart Attacks In Town

ROSETO, Pa. (AP) — "We have peace of mind."

That's the answer Mayor George Giaquinto, 50, of Roseto has for medical experts who are somewhat puzzled by the low incidence of heart attacks in this little Italian-American community of fat, yet healthy and happy people.

A seven-year medical study conducted in the northeastern Pennsylvania community made up of 1,630 has shown a death rate from heart attacks that is strikingly low—despite a passionate love for fattening foods and wine.

Medical researchers, who Thursday published their report on the eating habits and social behavior of the residents of Roseto, said the most striking feature of the community "was the way in which people seemed to enjoy life. They were gay, boisterous and unpretentious."

"Whether or not their sensible way of life contributed to their good health is still to be

THE SERGEANT said Ranes then admitted three other slayings.

Officers Cite Driver, 26, In Hit-Skip Case

Differing Accounts Given Police After Dresden Collision

A 26-year-old Dixonville man was taken into custody on charges of driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident after a collision at 1:27 this morning that damaged a parked auto on Dresden Ave., police reported.

Carlton L. Harris of Alder St. was cited by Patrolman H. E. Frontz in a collision that damaged the Dixonville man's 1958 model auto and a parked 1961 model compact owned by Mrs. Anna Mae Warrick, 911 Dresden Ave.

Mrs. Warrick told police she heard a crash and looked out the window. She said she saw the hit-skip auto just after it struck her car. She copied down the license number and called police, she said.

But Harris told police his auto was involved in a collision on St. Clair Ave. He said he was going up grade on St. Clair when he struck a southbound auto which was on the wrong side of the street. Harris told police he halted at the scene, but the other auto proceeded.

A diagram accompanying the accident report showed Harris' car struck a guardrail on Dresden Ave. near Moore St., then bounded across the street and struck Mrs. Warrick's car. Police said the crash damaged the entire front and right side of the Harris car and also caused heavy damage to the left front of Mrs. Warrick's auto.

Harris pleaded guilty to both charges when arraigned today before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

In the drunken driving case, the court fined Harris $200 and costs, suspended his operator's permit for 90 days and sentenced him to 30 days in jail.

Grand Jury's Report Seen This Afternoon

LISBON — The recalled April Grand Jury is expected to report to Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp this afternoon after winding up an investigation of seven cases that began this morning.

The Grand Jury was slated to hear 10 witnesses in the cases presented by Prosecutor G. William Brokaw.

Frank Todoff of M.C. Route 22, East Liverpool, replaced Mrs. Eileen Seckman, also of East Liverpool, as a member of the 15-member panel. Mrs. Seckman was ill and unable to report.

Humphrey's Certain Of Debate Curb

Senate's Crucial Vote On Shut-Off Scheduled Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey said today he is reasonably optimistic the Senate will vote to shut off the marathon civil rights debate. He expects 99 senators to be on hand for the crucial test next Tuesday.

Humphrey, assistant Democratic leader and the bill's floor manager, told newsmen the only absentee he knew of would be Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., who has had two brain operations.

Earlier there had been speculation administration forces might be able to invoke the debate-limiting cloture procedure by persuading some foes of the bill to stay away.

But the Minnesota senator discounted this. He said the vote was so important and the time was announced so far in advance that no senator really would have an excuse for being absent.

"We are expecting to have to produce 66 votes to obtain cloture," he said.

This would be exactly the required two-thirds if 99 votes are cast.

Humphrey said his optimism for success in the vote Tuesday had risen somewhat because "we had a good day yesterday." He referred to vote commitments but would not elaborate.

His official position, the senator explained, still is that "we will get more than 40 Democrats." Other party sources said prospects now were good for 43 or 44.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen has said he expects 25 or more Republicans will vote in favor of cloture.

Pressed in the Senate Thursday by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., as to whether the votes for cloture were nailed down, Humphrey replied: "If I have to give an opinion now, I would say yes."

But he added, with a grin: "Provided all our colleagues are here, provided the winds of good luck blow our way, and provided I have not miscalculated."

Morse had said it would be a great mistake to file a cloture petition until the votes for it were certain.

Humphrey said he, other leaders and Senate leadership staff aides have been struggling with this problem for weeks.

New Jersey Boy Held In Threat On Johnson

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Michael Allen Young, 18, of Wildwood, N.J., was arrested by Secret Service agents Thursday night and charged with threatening the life of President Johnson.

Young was jailed in default of $20,000 bond.

Agent Donald C. Brett testified before Charles L. Rudd, U.S. commissioner, that Young wrote and mailed a letter to the President that allegedly threatened to "get" Johnson "like Lee Harvey Oswald got Kennedy."

Brett said the letter, mailed on May 27 from Rio Grande, N.J., was not signed, but was traced to Young. He testified that a .22 caliber rifle and a .32 caliber pistol were found in the youth's bedroom.

-If Goldwater Wins

Nixon Describes Scranton As Top 'VP' Candidate

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon says Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania would be the Republican party's best candidate for vice president if Sen. Barry Goldwater wins the presidential nomination.

Nixon said Thursday Scranton's liberalism would balance the Arizona senator's conservatism and that the ticket, "perhaps the strongest team" available to the Republicans, would also be balanced geographically.

Earlier in the day, Scranton told a news conference in Harrisburg, Pa., he would run with Goldwater only if there were a genuine draft by convention delegates.

He had been asked to comment on GOP National Chairman William E. Miller's recent statement that Scranton would make a good running mate for Goldwater.

Nixon gave his views at a new conference before speaking at a testimonial for Rep. Steven B. Deoulian, R-N.Y., in this city on Long Island.

He said: "The chances of any Republican beating Johnson today are considered remote by the pollsters, by the television commentators and by all the political experts. All that I can say is this: That the polls have been wrong in New Hampshire, Oregon and California (primaries)."

He called 1964 a year of upsets and added that a "slam-bang" campaign by the GOP could defeat Johnson.

The next two weeks, he said, are critical in the campaign for the Republican nomination and a bandwagon psychology could develop for Goldwater.

"You'll know in two weeks if a Goldwater blitz will succeed," he said.

He said he was not going to endorse any candidate and that if any "stop-Goldwater" movement developed, "I certainly would not become a party to it, and I would instruct my aides not to join it."

As for his own future, Nixon said: "I don't anticipate a draft will take place for me."

Asked if he thought a Nixon-Goldwater ticket would be a good one, he said: "I think the best ticket would be a Goldwater-Scranton ticket. It gets the combination of the Goldwater experience on the national scene and the combination of a big Eastern state."

Target Of Demonstrations

Park's Top Aide Quits Korea Post

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Kim Chong-pil, a chief target of the mounting student demonstrations in South Korea, resigned today as chairman of President Chung Hee Park's ruling Democratic Republican party.

Park accepted Kim's resignation in an effort to quiet the swelling public discontent. He had rejected a resignation from Kim over the weekend.

Kim, 37, was Park's righthand man, former head of the secret police and a key plotter in the 1961 military coup that brought Park into power.

Park also ordered all colleges and universities in the country closed until July 4, a day before the start of the two-month summer vacation.

Eighty-five schools with a total enrollment of 125,000 are affected. Leading universities had been the breeding ground for the riotous demonstrations which this week have raised the gravest challenge so far to Park's regime.

As a leader in recent negotiations to restore normal relations with Japan, Korea's old enemy, Kim was a particular object of student wrath. The current wave of student unrest began last March to protest the talks with Japan.

A spokesman said Park expressed appreciation for Kim's work as party chairman when he called at the presidential mansion this afternoon to offer his resignation.

Salute Living, Honor Dead

World's Allied Nations Mark Normandy Invasion

OMAHA BEACH, France (AP) — The Allied nations of World War II start two days of ceremonies today to salute the living and honor the dead of the Normandy invasion on the 20th anniversary of the assault.

Hundreds of D-Day veterans were assembling in the invasion area where Americans, British, Canadian and French soldiers stormed the beaches on June 6, 1944. Most were on private pilgrimages.

The official U.S. delegation, headed by Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Deputy Secretary of Defense Silas Vance, and Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was to arrive this afternoon. Gen.

Bradley commanded the American forces on D-Day. Gen. Taylor parachuted with the 101st Airborne Division, which he commanded.

Villagers and town officials are offering visitors a warm welcome. Because each town that has any claim to strategic importance in the assault that liberated France wants to pay its tribute, the observances have been spread over two days.

President Charles de Gaulle is staying haughtily aloof—just as he did on D-Day. Premier Georges Pompidou had promised to attend, but canceled his acceptance.

Some Hoped One Would Enter Race

California Winner Resting Away From Political Storm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two potential challengers of Sen. Barry Goldwater for the Republican presidential nomination—Richard M. Nixon and Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania—have announced they will have no part of any stop-Goldwater drive.

Some Republican leaders who oppose Goldwater's candidacy have hoped that one or the other would leap into the GOP race, become the rallying point for a coalition and take the play from the Arizona conservative at the national convention.

But as Goldwater rested away from the political storm and strife and his bandwagon appeared to be taking on more steam, Nixon, the party's standard bearer in 1960, said on Long Island Thursday night he would not take part in any stop-Goldwater movement.

The former vice president said such a move "would so badly split the party that whoever got the nomination would find it wasn't worth anything at all."

In Harrisburg, Pa., Scranton said he would not be "part and parcel" of any movement to stop Goldwater and that after winning the California primary the senator appears to be the likely nominee.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller talked of the platform the Republicans will adopt at their convention next month and peppered the Johnson administration, charging "failure at home and abroad."

In Cleveland, Gov. Paul Fanin of Arizona, an early arrival for the governors' conference which opens Saturday, predicted flatly that Goldwater will be nominated on the first ballot.

According to the latest Associated Press survey of delegates to the San Francisco convention, Goldwater can now count on a first-ballot total of 446—just 209 short of the 655 required for nomination.

City Officials To Seek Help For Projects

A delegation of four city officials is scheduled to confer with State Highway Department authorities Monday and Tuesday at Columbus, seeking financial aid on four major municipal projects.

Mayor Merrill D. Hall will head the delegation, which will leave for Columbus Monday at 1 p.m., expecting to confer with state officials before and after the Highway Department opens bids at 11 a.m. Tuesday on the St. Clair Ave. rebuilding project.

The mayor will be accompanied by Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey, Engineer George S. Bloomgren and Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper. They will attend the bid-opening session.

The mayor said the delegation will seek aid on:

West Beaver Board Fills Truant Post

Three appointments and a reassignment were made by the Western Beaver County Board of Education Thursday night at the high school at Industry.

Earl Hineman was reappointed as truant officer and also hired as school policeman.

Richard Gailey was elected by the board as head custodian. The board also agreed no additional custodial personnel will be hired.

Larry Royle, assistant manager of the Chippewa branch of the Mellon National Bank, was appointed treasurer for the next year and the bank was named as depository for school funds.

The board also gave final approval to the budget of $841,769 for the 1964-65 term.

The resignation of Mrs. Maureen Gonano as girls' physical education and health teacher, was accepted.

Frank A. Meredith, supervising principal, reported he is accepting applications for that position, along with those in metal shop, social studies and art.

The board authorized the establishment of a summer typing course if there is sufficient interest.

Hineman, Industry borough tax collector, presented his yearly report. General bills totaling $50,384, including $34,607 for salaries were approved along with cafeteria bills of $5,147.

WEST LIBERTY, Ky. — Two men pleaded innocent to charges of possessing a moonshine still, told Judge Joe Freytag and the jury that they stumbled on the still while squirrel hunting and produced a dog to prove it. While the jury was out reaching an innocent verdict, Game Warden Billy Collins took out warrants charging the pair with squirrel hunting out of season. They pleaded guilty and paid $25 fines.

ed him to 10 days in County Jail. In the hit-skip case, Harris was given another 10-day jail term and ordered to pay the costs.

Lecturing Harris, the judge said a motorist who fails to halt after an accident is guilty of "a cowardly act."

Patrolman Howard E. Frontz, who investigated the crash and filed the charges against Harris, related the circumstances to the court.

Officer Frontz said he was in a cruiser on St. Clair Ave. when he was notified to investigate a crash on Dresden Ave. A bout that time, he said, he saw a northbound auto with heavy damage about the front end. He said he learned later the damaged car was Harris'.

Officer Frontz said he proceeded to the crash scene, made an investigation and obtained the license number of the offending car from Mrs. Warrick. Tracing the license number to Harris, he took the suspect into custody for questioning and found him "highly intoxicated," he said.

Officers also investigated two minor mishaps Thursday.

A collision on Harvey Ave. 40 feet east of Bushwick St. at 10:34 p.m. involved an eastbound auto driven by Robert E. Mills, 21, of Irondale and a parked 1957 sedan owned by Donald D. Densmore, 715 Sophia St., police said.

Mills told police he started to pass another auto when the car in front of him pulled out to pass also. He said he slammed on his brakes, causing his car to slide into Densmore's auto. The crash damaged the left side, door, fender and bumper of the Mills car and the left front fender, bumper and hood of Densmore's auto, police said. Another mishap Thursday on Pennsylvania Ave. 50 feet east of Lee St. damaged a 1951 sedan driven by Walter A. Everts, 74, of 2008 Pennsylvania Ave. Ext. and a 1959 sedan operated by Spiro C. Pappas, 54, of 418 Elizabeth St., officers said.

Pappas told officers he was headed east on Pennsylvania Ave. and as he passed Everts' car, which was parked, Everts pulled from the curb and bumped the Pappas car.

Lutz said no details were obtained in the latter killings.

SGT. Frank Thompson said a call came from Arthur Boothe of Kalamazoo and quoted Ranes as saying he had killed Smock, intended to visit a priest, and then kill himself.

Ranes was walking down the driveway of the Boothe home when police arrived.

Arraigned on a murder charge at 3 a.m., Ranes was held without bail.

More Rioting Planned In Alabama City

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Negro demonstrations were planned again today in downtown Tuscaloosa where at least 40 persons, mostly Negro teenagers, have been slightly burned when squirted with oil of mustard and other ingredients.

It was reported Thursday that nine Negroes and three policemen were treated for minor, irritating burns received when they were squirted with the liquid during a demonstration.

Druid City Hospital confirmed that the nine Negroes had been treated, but it had no report on the policemen. The Tuscaloosa News said the policemen were not treated.

Negroes, led by the recently organized Tuscaloosa Citizens of Action Committee, have been conducting low-key demonstrations at three downtown stores.

The Rev. T. Y. Rogers, a spokesman for the group, said they are protesting alleged segregated lunch counters and discriminatory hiring tactics.

Some persons, apparently in crowds which gather near the demonstrators, have been squirting them with oil of mustard and mixtures of lemon juice and water. They use small containers and slip away undetected, police said.

supreme Allied commander of the invasion forces, wanted De Gaulle to participate in a D-Day address to the French people in 1944. But De Gaulle wanted to be recognized as ruler of France.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt said the United States had no intention of imposing any government on the French people. Without the recognition, De Gaulle refused to help with the broadcast, and ever since has been cool to Allied commemorations of the event.

It is also well known that De Gaulle was offended because the United States and Britain did not tell him invasion was imminent until two days before it took place.

De Gaulle will go on Sunday, however, to the Mont Valerien Cemetery outside Paris to place a wreath in honor of the French resistance movement.

John Lee and Robert Murphy will re-enact their D-Day role of 20 years ago by parachuting into a hedge-lined field near St. Mere-Eglise. Lee, president of a structural steel firm in Worcester, Mass., and Murphy, an attorney in Westwood, Mass., are members of the official delegation.

William Tucker of Athol, Mass., a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, arrived here today but will not take part in the jump.

Lee, who landed at Beuzeville-au-Plain and moved into St. Mere-Eglise at daylight, said "I keep trying to put the pieces together. It looks different now, and so peaceful. Every time we looked up in 1944 it seemed like another building was being hit by a shell."

Lee, Murphy and Tucker all took part in four combat jumps during the war.

Hall said Bloomgren is scheduled to make advance appointments with state officials with whom the local delegation will consult.

With approval of the $500 million state bond issue at the primaries on May 5, East Liverpool feels part of the proceeds could be used to assist in the long-sought local projects, the mayor commented.

The W. 9th St., Shadyside Ave. and Lisbon St. improvements have been sought by the city for approximately two years.

The need for eastward extension of the Freeway was cited by a Highway Department official about 18 months ago when the West End - California Hollow stage was opened.

Soviet Paper Voices More Spy Charges

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet military newspaper Red Star broke out in a rash of old and new spy charges today against American and British military attaches as it denounced retaliatory restrictions slapped on Soviet attaches in London and Washington.

The Soviet organ also denied that a British and three American attaches were drugged in Odessa last March. It said they had drunk too much alcohol.

The paper leveled new charges against six American aides, accusing them of snooping around Soviet military areas and taking forbidden photographs.

The article said three Americans, Navy Lt. Leonard Bracken, Lt. Cmdr. Frank Babbitt and Maj. David Colgan went to Murmansk last year, "penetrated into a banned zone and were detained there."

Last October, the article continued, Bracken and three other Americans, Marine Lt. Col. James M. Landrigan, Cmdr. Stuart Savage and Maj. James F. Smith of the Air Force tried to take pictures from a plane while flying to Rostov.

The paper also accused Bracken and "three companions" of photographing Soviet ships while traveling from Odessa to Bati in February.

African Pavilion At World's Fair Brings In Money

NEW YORK (AP) — The African pavilion at the World's Fair, which almost failed early in the planning stage for lack of money, now appears to be one of the best money-makers at the fair.

The principal backer is Rep. Frances P. Bolton, R-Ohio.

Some other pavilions and shows have lamented high costs and poor attendance, but Dewitt T. Yates, president of African Pavilion, Inc., said Thursday it has been taking in $5,000 a day.

Features of the show are the wild music of the Royal Burundi Drummers and the even wilder dancing of the Watutsi Warriors.

Yates said the daily gross is about $1,500 above operating costs.

Rep. Bolton, who owns 87 percent of the stock, is the ranking GOP member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and has visited Africa several times. Her investment reportedly is $550,000. It appears it will pay off handsomely.

Greenisen Lists $326 Expense In Campaign

County Commissioner Galen Greenisen of near Salem spent $326 in a successful campaign for renomination on the Republican ticket at the primaries May 5, he said in a sworn statement of expenses on file today with the County Election Board.

John Ursu of Salem filed a report showing he had no expenses in an unopposed bid for the Democratic nomination for county engineer.

June 19 at 4 p. m. is the deadline for the reports, required of all candidates as well as from individuals or committees that supported or opposed any candidate or issue.

Chester Auto Blazes After Hit-Skip Crash

Chester Police were seeking the name of the driver of a hit-skip car that struck another on Carolina Ave. early this morning, setting it ablaze.

The driver apparently fled the scene after his car struck the rear of the parked car, which was damaged by fire about 5:30. Police said the hit-skip car has Pennsylvania registration. It was identified as a 1962 Chevrolet convertible.

Owner of the damaged car was not immediately identified.

No Thanks From DeGaulle

There is nothing accidental in French President Charles de Gaulle's indifference to commemoration by Western allies of the Normandy invasion which liberated his country 20 years ago.

The snub is calculated. The stiff-necked attitude proud and haughty Charles de Gaulle is exhibiting today may leave his allies nonplused but it shouldn't surprise them.

De Gaulle has made a career out of exercising personal independence to the point of insolence.

He will not attend the Normandy ceremonies nor permit Premier Georges Pompidou to take part. France will be represented by a comparative lightweight—Jean Sainteny, minister of veterans affairs.

THIS IS Charles de Gaulle's way of saying thank you to his Western allies for the bleeding and dying they did 20 years ago on the tortuous Normandy beachheads to lead France to freedom. De Gaulle's attitude is a wartime hangover.

He has never forgiven the United States and Britain for their indifference to him when D-Day strategy was being mapped. He was heading a government-in-exile at the time and not regarded a chief of state. He was not told the invasion was imminent until its very eve.

But in 1944, who could have blamed Allied leaders for not trusting this crusty Frenchman?

President Roosevelt and secretary of state Cordell Hull were willing to go the limit in supporting De Gaulle militarily but they begrudged him political support. They saw him as a desperately temperamental militarist with little political acumen.

No one could foresee in that dark moment that France would make a dramatic comeback or that De Gaulle would emerge as one of the leading powers in Europe.

De GAULLE is a sensitive man with much to be sensitive about. His country collapsed in humiliation in the early days of the war in Europe, with help from the likes of Marshal Petain, who collaborated with the Nazis.

Charles de Gaulle has every right to be proud of France and the role he played in its restoration as a world power.

But it is unfortunate he refuses to acknowledge the role played by his allies whose representatives are gathering again today on the invasion beaches of Normandy.

Frank W. Springer

The district has lost an outstanding attorney and East Palestine has lost a capable community leader with the death of Frank W. Springer.

Mr. Springer was a man at ease in Court, whether as a representative of the State or serving a defendant, and was long active in the service of other people in education, sports programs, civic projects, the Church and other areas.

Few men have served so efficiently both the cause of Justice and their fellow man.

Arithmetic Of Nomination

The looming fact in Republican presidential politics now becomes Sen. Barry Goldwater's huge delegate count—at least 438 first-ballot votes plus the prospect of picking up another 145 to 190 votes before the party convention.

With 655 votes needed to land the nomination and the psychology of the leading position working in his favor, Sen. Goldwater has a first-ballot nomination in sight.

Delegates to the nominating convention are the hard-core realists of the party. They are the people who put up the money and give the time to make the party organization work. They are not interested in public opinion polls and guesswork approaches to political problems.

THEY COUNT VOTES, not percentages—and the votes they are counting now are for Sen. Goldwater. They may or may not like his positions on some points of policy. They may or may not like the man, himself, or his ultra conservative supporters. But, being political realists, they are guided only by the realism of the situation.

No one is in sight who can keep Sen. Goldwater from winning the nomination.

The convention situation in 1964 will be utterly unlike the situation in 1952, when Sen. Taft seemed to have the delegates sewed up yet was shuffled out of the nomination by the Republican party's Eastern faction.

In 1952, a sure winner was standing in the wings. Dwight D. Eisenhower was primed and ready to be elected if nominated by the Republicans. Harry S. Truman was not seeking renomination. Whoever his successor as party leader was going to be would have to offer himself as a political sacrifice to the nation's most popular man of the hour.

Thanks to convention hanky-panky with contested Southern delegations, candidate Eisenhower came within five votes of the nomination on the first ballot roll call —595 against 500 for Sen. Taft, 81 for Earl Warren, 20 for Harold Stassen, 10 for Douglas MacArthur. Following the roll call, Stassen threw 19 of his 20 votes to Eisenhower, the other delegates got the message and the official Eisenhower count was zoomed up to 845.

A MOTION to make the choice of Eisenhower unanimous carried, despite plainly audible "No" votes throughout the Chicago Stockyards auditorium.

That was the way the Eastern steamroller chugged to triumph in 1952. The Eastern wing of the Republican party, with Henry Cabot Lodge in a key role, had done it again, as it had done it before with Thomas E. Dewey and Wendell L. Willkie. It was as if a pattern had been established that no other Republican faction could set aside. But today there is a new faction, and it is riding high.

In 1964 there is no Eisenhower, no Dewey, no Willkie. There is only Sen. Goldwater within reaching distance of the Republican nomination and no one within reaching distance of Sen. Goldwater.

Gentle Sentinel

A proposal to eliminate the floral gardens at Greater Pittsburgh Airport, utilizing the area for needed auto parking space, has brought criticism from the esthetically-minded, flower lovers and now a veterans group.

The Allegheny County Veterans of Foreign Wars has protested the plan, pointing out the gardens were originally dedicated by the County Commissioners to men killed in action in all the nation's wars.

A lot of people are hoping the floral gardens will be retained, if not for preservation of a beauty site or a tribute to war dead, but just as a spot of nature, unblacktopped and unbedecked by billboards, standing as a gentle sentinel against the ever-increasing encroachment of the automobile.

By Truman Twill

conceived a bitter hatred of you because you let him make a fool of himself.

But it isn't any fun at the time. It isn't even fun later, because the other fellow never is going to admit what happened.

And it deprives you of the pleasure of feeling your heart beat faster and your neck redden as you are sucked ever deeper into a quagmire of angry recriminations. This is the essence of partisanship in this republic.

EVERY FOUR YEARS all of us get red-necked and supercharged with emotion about politics. It relieves monotony. It churns up the cholesterol deposits in our plumbing and carries them off safely. It blows off steam and keeps the boiler from exploding.

It makes new enemies of old friends and shakes up the social order. While it lasts, our minds are taken off other matters we are tired of anyway—kids, Japanese beetles, corn-borers, the Congo, middle-age delinquency, the divorce rate and the worldwide fact that people who know Americans best end up by despising them.

We're heading into another emotional purge in 1964. Do you want to win arguments? Just let the opposition hang itself in its own words. Or would you rather have fun?

Threatened!

Hoffa Watches Taxi Union Ballot

By Victor Riesel

Leaders of the Seafarers International Union (SIU) are a rank-and-file who sit behind the wheels. This poll will be effective test of that popularity. Primary forecasts, presidential polls and even the popularity of the United States in England and France—which became such an issue in the 1960 election—have been judged on the basis of a far smaller sampling than 2,000 men.

This again is merely part of the import of this election. Hoffa has always claimed that only a handful of labor leaders in the national AFL-CIO is opposed to him.

It has been his war cry that the second and third line leadership are with him. Well, this taxi election campaign has proven him wrong even in his home community. Detroit is in Wayne County, Michigan, and here is what the official newspapers of the Wayne County AFL-CIO said on May 28 about the coming poll:

"The Wayne County AFL-CIO has reaffirmed its full support of the campaign to bring some 2,000 Checker Cab Co. drivers into the AFL-CIO under the banner of Local 10. . . . The central labor body strongly urged the Checker drivers to vote for Local 10 when balloting is conducted by the NLRB on June 8-9 in the biggest taxi union election ever held here (Detroit)."

"Al Barbour, president of the Wayne County AFL-CIO, called on all trade unionists in the area to assist in the Local 10 campaign by appointing themselves as volunteer organizers whenever they ride Checker cabs. "A vote for Local 10 is a good strong union."

THE MEN who lead the county labor federation "grew up" with Jim Hoffa. They know the strength "the Teamsters" can give their unions during a strike or deadline negotiations. They know Hoffa is a "quid-pro-quo guy." They know he won't soon forget the aid they are giving the one union which has consistently beaten the Teamsters all the way from Puerto Rico to the West Coast.

They know that a rank-and-file reputation in Detroit now would hurt the quiet campaigns throughout the country to raise "Hoffa defense committees" and collect expense money for the Chicago loan fraud trial.

Many of them are willing to take their chances. So are labor officials in other big cities. They have been reading the court records and the texts of indictments and are suddenly disturbed by the vastness of the full implications of the actions charged in these court records. They've had it. And the support of the opposition to the Detroit Teamsters is their way of telling this to "Jimmy."

That is the full significance of the taxi poll in Detroit. That's why Hoffa has been watching it so closely.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO—Ross Redick and E. R. Smith were elected elders of the Fredericktown Christian Church.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW: I would like to remind those in the area of the courtesy and generosity of a number of our merchants in supporting school projects.

Odd Facts

The candidate running the greatest number of times for the Presidency of the United States was Norman Thomas, well-known Socialist leader, who made six unsuccessful bids—in 1928, 1932, 1936, 1940, 1944, and 1948.

GOP Race Unchanged

By David Lawrence

Goldwater Still Long Way From Nomination

Though there were four ways that the presidential primary election in California could come out, the over-all impact on the campaign strategy of the would-be candidates in the next six weeks before the Republican national convention would hardly have been David Lawrence's changed, irrespective of Tuesday's voting in the Golden State.

If Gov. Rockefeller had won, whether by a large or narrow margin, the Goldwater supporters would still have pointed to his lack of delegate strength and would have continued their efforts just the same.

If Sen. Goldwater had won by a large margin, this would by no means have diminished the efforts of the Rockefeller forces, for they realize they have been far behind in delegate strength right along.

Even if it had been known that Sen. Goldwater would win by a narrow margin, the Rockefeller campaign strategy would have been to continue the battle as vigorously as before on the assumption that if the New York governor himself cannot win the nomination, he might succeed in bringing about a stalemate. This could force the selection of either Vice President Nixon or Gov. Scranton or Ambassador Lodge, each of whom has a substantial strength inside the Republican party today.

THE PUBLIC OPINION polls didn't clarify the problem in advance of the voting. In fact, there are many persons who now are criticizing the pollsters for having predicted that the California primary would result in a substantial victory for Gov. Rockefeller.

While these forecasts were by no means pleasant reading for the Goldwater supporters in recent days, the truth is that, if the polls had forecast a victory by a wide margin for Sen. Goldwater, there might have been a lag inside his own campaign.

The effect, indeed, of the discouraging percentages for Goldwater noted in the polls may have been the very thing that caused his supporters to intensify their efforts in the last few days and work harder to get out their vote than they otherwise would have done.

If the entire scene is surveyed from the standpoint of its influence on the final selection of a nominee at the convention, it is clear that the California victory gave the Goldwater cause a timely stimulus.

The anti-Goldwater folks were constantly spreading the idea that the Arizona senator would be all washed up and out of the race if he lost the California primary.

THERE IS a depth of feeling between the Goldwater and anti-Goldwater forces which doesn't augur well for the future of the Republican party itself.

There is no doubt about the fact that the Republicans who are behind Sen. Goldwater feel that he is dedicated to the cause of a "conservative liberalism" in America, and that his opponents have been wrongfully trying to picture him as impulsive in foreign policy and ultra-conservative in domestic policy.

The big question is whether there is a chance to reconcile the two groups in the party, and whether either former Vice President Nixon or Gov. Scranton of Pennsylvania could do the job of reconciliation in the event Sen. Goldwater doesn't make the grade.

While Sen. Goldwater has an even chance of winning the Republican presidential nomination, he still is a long way from assuring himself of a majority of the delegates. The latest tabulation by the United Press International shows that he has approximately 433 pledged votes, and he, of course, needs 655. There are small blocs of votes committed to Messrs. Lodge, Nixon, Rockefeller, Scranton and "favorite sons," but there is a large bloc of 238 uncommitted votes.

THE MANEUVERING that has been going on behind the scenes in the Republican party will not be suspended because Sen. Goldwater won in California. Indeed, efforts will be renewed to persuade the delegates who are uncommitted or who favor other candidates not to allow their strength to be thrown to the Arizona senator.

The strategy usually is to bring about at least three ballots at the convention without a majority choice, with the hope that the leading contender will lose votes as some of his delegates drop away and thus cause the rise of another candidate.

A candidate on the other hand, who has a bloc of 433 votes or thereabouts to start with can do a lot of persuading and win to his side enough of the uncommitted delegates to assure an early nomination. The doubtful delegates usually are quick to climb aboard a "bandwagon."

Radioactive Sleuth

By Earl Ubell

They're putting old oil paintings inside atomic piles at Brookhaven National Laboratory on Long Island. The scientists made them slightly radioactive, not dangerously so, just enough to reveal a three-dimensional chemical picture of the layers of paint.

The technique already has demonstrated how painters of a century ago laid down the various elements of the picture, how they mixed the pigments right on the canvas and how they prepared the first layer of material all over the canvas. All this was done without harming the masterpieces.

Although the technique is still in its infancy, it holds great possibilities for restorers, art historians and for those experts who often must determine the difference between a masterpiece and a fake.

THE METHOD—called neutron activation analysis—joins a long line of efforts attempting to apply science to art.

Dr. Edward V. Sayre, a physical chemist at Brookhaven, worked out the procedure in collaboration with Miss Heather N. Lechtman, a graduate student at the conservation center of the Institute of Fine Arts at New York University. The center is devoted to developing methods for analyzing paintings and restoring them.

"We haven't tried it on a valuable old master yet," Dr. Sayre said. "We almost got a chance at a doubtful Vermeer, but the owner was a little worried about what the atomic pile would do to the painting. The answer is absolutely nothing."

The method rests on the ability of neutrons—uncharged atomic particles—to transmute one element into another and to make the new element radioactive—spew out high-speed rays. The scientists simply insert the painting into the atomic pile and allow the neutrons developed inside to bombard the pigments' element—such as iron, cobalt, manganese.

After 20 minutes in the pile, the paintings come face to face with a large photographic plate. The rays emanating from the transmuted pigments then "expose" the plate as though the plate were in front of an X-ray machine. Then you can see quite clearly the outlines of the paintings, the layers of paint underneath and the canvas.

IN A SENSE, it is like X-raying a picture, which art historians often do to try to discover underpaintings and other elements hidden by the surface layers. But the difference is this: The series of photographs taken by neutron activation analysis actually permit Dr. Sayre and Miss Lechtman to determine the chemical composition of the layers of paint. Each chemical element produces a different intensity of rays after exposure to the neutrons.

Of course, the painting is radioactive. It produces at first about two reentgens of radiation an hour, which could be dangerous if maintained at that level. But in several hours the radioactivity drops to one-tenth of this level, and in two or three weeks the most sensitive instrument cannot detect any rays at all.

The neutrons, Dr. Sayre said, affect only one atom in a trillion in the pigments; and to make a visible effect on the composition of the paintings, Dr. Sayre would have had to repeat the treatment about a billion times.

Ball Confers With DeGaul On Asia Crisis

PARIS (AP)—U.S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball arrived in Paris today to confer with President Charles de Gaulle on the situation in Southeast Asia.

Ball, the State Department's No. 2 man, was to meet with Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and then see De Gaulle at the president's Elysee Palace. He goes to London over the weekend for talks with British officials.

By coincidence, De Gaulle will receive Communist China's first ambassador to France, Huang Chen, for the first time Saturday. The envoy will present his credentials.

Ball came here as a special emissary from President Johnson after the high-level meeting in Honolulu at which American officials examined U.S. policy and programs in Southeast Asia.

The undersecretary told newsmen he had come for a continuation of the dialogue with France on matters of common interest, and particularly on policy in Southeast Asia.

Asked about published reports that relations between the U.S. and French governments are worsening, Ball replied, "We remain firm allies."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, who attended the Honolulu session, reported earlier this week to Johnson on the situation in South Viet Nam, Laos and the rest of Southeast Asia—an area where American and French policies differ. Ball sat in on the White House meeting.

Demonstration Group Slates Tea Nov. 11-12

The annual "Christmas at Home" tea of the County Home Demonstration Council will be held Nov. 11-12 at the Salem Christian Church, the group decided Thursday at its quarterly meeting at the East Fairfield Methodist Church. The theme will be "Silver Bells."

The group also made plans for demonstrations which it will present five times daily at the Floral Hall during the annual County Fair Aug. 26-30. Forty-one attended. Mrs. Ben Smith of Lisbon, president, presided. Committee reports were presented. A home demonstration handbook also was discussed.

New Canal

Waterway's Likely Routes Given

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

NEW CANAL: The likely routes of a new sea-level Isthmian canal are across Panama, 110 miles east of the Panama Canal, or across Colombia.

This became apparent Thursday when in testimony to the House Merchant Marine Committee, Secretary of the Army Stephen Ailes did not mention proposed routes in Mexico and just 40 miles east of the present canal in Panama.

And Ailes specifically ruled out a proposed Nicaraguan route telling the committee it is not being considered because it would be "a great deal longer and a great deal more expensive."

The committee is considering a bill to authorize a study of construction sites for a new canal. Ailes estimated it would cost $17.5 million to survey the Panama and Colombia routes, and he recommended about $300,000 more to examine the possibility of making the present canal a sea-level one.

LBJ: President Johnson's committee on employment of the handicapped will present its distinguished service award to Washington's Gallaudet College Saturday and that evening the President will address a centennial banquet at this oldest college for the deaf in the United States.

VIET NAM TOLL: The latest Pentagon summary of casualties in South Viet Nam shows that through June 1, 40 Americans were killed in noncombat aircraft accidents and 97 in air action. Another 44 Americans perished in ground fighting.

GREEN LIGHT: The House passed Thursday a bill to establish a 15-member national commission on food marketing. The group would study the marketing process from farm to consumer.

In acting, the House cut the amount authorized for the study from the $2.5 million voted by the Senate to $1.5 million as recommended by the House Agriculture Committee. The bill now returns to the Senate and probably will wind up in a conference between the two chambers to resolve the differences.

U.S., Viet Troops Wipe Out Red Area

TAY NINH, South Viet Nam (AP)—Jungle-trained U.S. and Vietnamese special forces wiped out a vital Communist supply area along the Cambodian border in a hazardous three-day "scorched earth" operation that ended Thursday night.

The operation west of Tay Ninh may set a new pattern in the war against the elusive Viet Cong.

The Viet Cong toll was not high—about 25 killed out of 1,500 men estimated in the area. But everything the Viet Cong depend upon for their sustenance was razed or carried away.

About 1,000 tons of rice was destroyed. Thousands of ducks and chickens were slaughtered or carried off. Dozens of pigs, water buffalo and cows were destroyed.

A 20-mile stretch along the Vaico Oriental River was left scorched and barren. Winding southeastward out of Cambodia, the river has been a strategic waterway for Red guerrillas and supplies.

The operation was one of the biggest helicopter-supported operations of the war. Twenty-five armed and ten troop-carrying U.S. helicopters took part.

The number of ground forces was relatively small—some 300 Vietnamese special forces, 200 Rangers and 20 American advisers. But the advisers said it was one of the best-coordinated American-Vietnamese operations of the war.

An "improper fraction" is one whose numerator is larger than its denominator.

Weather Bureau

Cites Possible

Tropical Storm

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Weather Bureau said a weak tropical depression moving into the south Gulf of Mexico about 400 miles southwest of Miami could become a tropical storm by tonight.

An Air Force reconnaissance plane from Hunter Air Force Base, Savannah, Ga., was scheduled to probe the disturbance today, the weather bureau said.

Peak winds in a band of rain were clocked at 35 miles an hour, according to the Weather Bureau's 11 p.m. advisory Thursday. That was less than the 39 m.p.h. required to classify the disturbance a tropical storm.

The depression's center then was moving slowly in a northeasterly direction.

The Weather Bureau said at 5 a.m. there has been no evidence of intensification. The depression continued to move northward.

Havana radio reported that heavy rains caused by the depression area drenched western Pinar del Rio province for 30 hours, paralyzing several tobacco and sugar cutting labor areas.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, June 5, the 157th day of 1964. There are 209 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1947, Secretary of State George C. Marshall, speaking at Harvard University, announced what became known as the "Marshall Plan."

On this date
In 1723, the political economist, Adam Smith, was born.

In 1781, American troops captured Augusta, Ga.

In 1948, the first Wisconsin State Legislature met.

In 1917, more than 10.5 million Americans registered for the Selective Service draft for World War I military service.

In 1944, Allied troops crossed the Tiber River in pursuit of the enemy in World War II.

Ten years ago—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told France and Italy they might lose all U.S. military aid in the future unless they entered the proposed European Defense Command.

Five years ago—Reversing his decision of two months earlier, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer renounced his candidacy for the presidency and said he would remain as chancellor.

One year ago—The second Negro entered the University of Mississippi, but the violence which had marked the initial desegregation in September, 1962, was absent.

Relieved Or Suspicious?

Lull On Viet Battlefields Puzzling U.S. Officers

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American officers in South Viet Nam can't agree whether to be relieved or suspicious about the comparative lull that has settled over the country's battlefields.

"Communist Viet Cong activity runs in cycles," a senior American officer commented. "I guess they are slowing down for the time being."

Other Americans view the lull with foreboding.

"We haven't had word of hard-core Viet Cong activity in weeks," an adviser to a Vietnamese division said. "We get action, but only from the local Communist militia. Those hard-core units must be planning some new strategy, and that can only mean bad business for us."

Communist activity was intense during April and part of May. Several major engagements were fought.

Late May and early June, however, has been a period of lull.

"The rainy weather, which started a couple of weeks ago, is not really a factor because it is no deterrent to Viet Cong action," one officer said.

Other Americans suggested the lull may have something to do with developments in Laos.

"With the pressure on in Laos in recent weeks, the West was so edgy that continued aggressiveness by the Communist here might have panicked everyone into doing something drastic," one commented.

Lausche Against Cost To Revamp Historic Street

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, figures it isn't worth $500 million to revamp historic Pennsylvania Avenue between the White House and the Capitol.

The proposal, which includes clearing 40-acres between the White House and the Capitol for a mile-long "grand axis," was made by a council appointed by the late President Kennedy.

"When I heard the cost of this project I began to wonder what concept these advisers have as to the ability of the taxpayers to continue to finance these inordinate spending programs," Lausche told the Senate Thursday.

"How does the council reach the conclusion that $500 million should be spent on Pennsylvania Avenue by tearing down buildings which are presently good and usable and that the taxpayers will supinely endure that type of treatment," Lausche asked.

300 Accounts Added In City Tax Canvass

Three hundred new accounts have been added to date in a citywide canvass launched two months ago today to compile an up-to-date list of individuals, business houses and manufacturers liable to the municipal income tax.

Announcing that figure today, D. G. Wilkinson, tax commissioner, said the survey is about two-thirds complete. It was launched on April 6 by two extra employees hired with a $2,000 appropriation provided by Council.

Bearing out the original estimate, Wilkinson said about another 30 days will be required to complete the citywide survey.

Except for "call backs," the study has been completed in East End, North Side and a small segment of the downtown area.

Work has also been finished in the Fisher Park district and the survey should be completed today in the balance of Pleasant Heights and the stretch of Lisbon St. connecting Pleasant Heights and West End, Wilkinson said.

Then the canvassers will move into West End and the balance of the downtown area. When the survey is complete, the list of prospective tax-payers will be current for the first time since the tax first was enacted in early 1958.

Wilkinson said the additional accounts represent extra revenue that will far more than offset the cost of the survey.

Tighter Statutes Urged On Pick Of TB Sufferers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A legislative study committee considering tuberculosis controls has been asked to recommend tighter statutes on picking up disease sufferers.

John Dickey of the Franklin County TB Control Services issued the appeal Thursday, asserting that many suspected victims who receive three-day notices for a court appearance simply disappear.

In other business, the committee heard opposition to the proposed plan to close Pleasant View Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Amherst, Lorain County.

Rep. Edward W. DeChant, D-Lorain, voiced the opposition in connection with a proposal to eliminate nine TB hospitals, leaving only a dozen in operation.

Another legislative committee studying control of Ohio's gas and oil boom displayed approval of new state regulations with one exception.

Members said metallic permits showing ownership of wells should be posted permanently instead of allowing removal after drilling is completed.

The hand, meaning four inches, is the measure used to determine the height of horses.

Ohio Angler Caught One That Got Away

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Jerry Turner of Vandalia caught the one that got away.

Turner listened to the hard luck story of a fellow fisherman the other day when he arrived at a lake northwest of West Milton. Seems the fellow had a three-pound catfish on a chain stringer, but somehow the fish wrenched the fastener pin and made his getaway.

Four hours later, Turner's hook caught on something at the bottom of the lake.

It was a metal pin—and on the end of it, the three-pound catfish.

Gov. Fannin Discounts Idea Of Drive To Halt Goldwater

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gov. Paul Fannin of Arizona says he is discounting any idea that there's going to be a drive to stop Sen. Barry Goldwater from getting the Republican presidential nomination. Or if there is such a movement he feels it won't succeed.

Fannin said Thursday night in an interview that he anticipates Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York will be making some maneuvers at the 56th annual Governors' Conference in an effort to bolster his position.

"But if you count heads, I don't think he's going to get too far," said Fannin, an early arrival for the conference which opens here Saturday. Rockefeller is scheduled to arrive Sunday.

Govs. George Romney of Michigan and William W. Scrantom of Pennsylvania, two others who figured as potential GOP presidential nominees, are due Saturday.

Fannin predicted a first-ballot victory for Goldwater at the Republican presidential nominating convention in San Francisco next month. He claimed the Arizona senator can now count on support from more than 600 delegates. According to the latest Associated Press survey of GOP delegates chosen so far, Goldwater's first - ballot strength among the delegates is 446 and Rockefeller's is 120.

Fannin said he does not expect the 16 GOP governors to take a stand now on a party presidential nominee. He does feel, however, additional ones will come out in favor of Goldwater during the conference.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I've read many letters in your column which seemed to be extraordinary, but the one from the woman who faked pregnancy was the living end. Tying a sofa cushion around her middle is one kind of idiocy, but the fact that she was able to fool him for five months is proof that he, too, must be a loon.

Really, now, Ann, if her husband can't tell chicken feathers from chicken fat he is just too blamed dumb to be a father. Between you and me and your 50 million readers, maybe it is best that there is no baby on the way.—RICHARD B.

Dear Richard: Your statement that "he is too blamed dumb to be a father" is interesting, since this is one achievement which requires no brains whatever.

I agree that both these characters sound as if they don't have one working brain cell between 'em which is why I did not recommend adoption.

Up To Higher Court

Dear Ann: Will you settle something? Last night I was out with a gentleman. As we alighted from a taxi he spotted a quarter on the floor of the cab. He didn't think I saw him pick up the coin up and slip it into his pocket.

I decided not to let him get away with it and told him straight away that he should have given the quarter to the driver. He became defensive and insisted that the quarter did not belong to the driver—that it had most assuredly dropped out of the pocket of a previous fare.

This man is a lawyer and I wish you could have heard the case he built for himself—"possession is nine points of the law," etc. It was ridiculous. Will you please size up the situation and tell me how it looks to you?—KATE.

Dear Kate: The quarter may have been dropped by a previous fare, but one thing is certain, it did not belong to your legal eagle.

Tell the Last of the Red Hot Spenders that he wins the Skinfint Award for the month of June—Cheapskate Division.

City Junk Yard

Dear Ann: Please don't think I'm a screwball because I'm using this bright orange paper. I want to attract your attention.

My husband and I have been married 25 years. He is well educated, intelligent, and neat about his person but he is a pack rat. All our married life I have had to plow through tons of magazines, assorted trash, odds and ends from his Navy days.

The yard looks like the city dump. He has parts of old cars, lawn statues that he bought at junk yards and second-hand toys he hopes to repair one day. I have given up trying to raise flowers and shrubs. It's hopeless.

I'm ashamed to have friends over because of the way our yard looks. Our children are ashamed, too. I have pleaded with my husband but he is deaf on the subject. If I throw anything out there is war.

You seem to have the answers for so many people. Can you help me?—DESPERATE.

Give your husband precisely one week to get rid of the trash and put the things he wants in the basement. After that throw out everything he hasn't set aside and let him declare war if he wants to. It will be worth it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Federal Judge Eyes Briefs Of Sheppard's Case

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—U. S. District Judge Carl A. Weinman has taken under study all briefs filed in the latest bid to free convicted wife-slayer Dr. Sam Sheppard from the Ohio Penitentiary.

Weinman, who received final briefs Thursday in the case aimed at freeing Sheppard on a writ of habeas corpus, gave no indication when he might reach a decision.

Atty. Gen. William Saxbe's brief was filed Thursday. In it, the state denied, among other things, allegations that Sheppard did not receive a fair trial and that his constitutional rights were violated.

Sheppard, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for the bludgeoning slaying of his wife, Marilyn, on July 4, 1954, has claimed through his attorneys that his "restraint" in prison is illegal, and that a writ of habeas corpus should be issued and his released ordered.

Saxbe's brief noted defense counsel claims that publicity in their client's Cleveland trial was such that the jurors were prejudiced.

Publicity in the case "was not of such a nature that the entire area from which the jury list was drawn was so saturated with biased information that the defendant was tried and found guilty before he reached the courtroom," the state's brief said.

Anti-Castro Leader Vows He'll Return

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—Cuban exile anti-Castro leader Manuel Ray, captured by British authorities on a Caribbean island after missing an announced rendezvous with his Communist-ruled homeland, vowed today that he will be there soon.

"Sooner than most people think," said Ray. "It is a matter of days."

Ray and seven companions were reported heading for Miami after being fined $14 each on illegal firearms possession charges and ordered deported.

"But my destination is Cuba," said Ray, 39, who defected from Fidel Castro after serving as his Havana underground leader in the revolution that toppled Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

As to why he missed his May 20 Cuban infiltration deadline, Ray said: "Cuba was placed on an emergency war footing at that time. Troops were mobilized. We have to use common sense. We must adjust plans to conditions."

Ray's statements were relayed by a spokesman for his organization, Revolutionary Junta in Miami. He said Bahamian authorities had forbidden him to speak to newsmen here.

"I will miss my May 20 date by just a short time," said Ray. "Such a short time that from a practical standpoint it makes no difference."

U.S. Business Faces 2 Problems In Red Trade

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—American business is taking a new look at trade with the Communist nations. It also is assessing its manner of dealing with Communist threats to its markets in other lands. The Red bloc offers both opportunities and pitfalls to American business planners as well as to shapers of political policy.

Romania and the United States have just widened the door to trade between them—with the final dollar volume yet to become apparent.

The Soviet Union is reported seeking more North American wheat, chiefly in Canada where it hopes for better terms.

Western European nations are pushing sales to Eastern Europe, some of which Washington frowns upon; and also to Cuba, which Washington deprecates. All this leads many American businessmen to want a slice of the pie.

But in exploring trade opportunities with the Communists, U.S. industrialists have two problems in particular: How they'll be paid, since the Red bloc is short on foreign exchange; and what products this country could take in barter, since the Soviet Union especially has little that the American market wants.

In the wider field of competition in world markets, American business has still other problems. The Soviets can, and sometimes do, dump commodities such as oil on carefully chosen markets at prices that the American profit system can't match.

And Communist propaganda in some developing countries where Americans have traditional markets can upset Yankee sales, and even lead to appropriation of American investments. How to counter this propaganda?

"We try to outsell communism, not out-yell it," says M. J. Rathbone, board chairman of host country and showing what free enterprise can do for free people."

Newly Weds Won't Part With Pet Lion

ROSEVILLE, Mich. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Hertz say they have too much heart to consider separation from their house pet—a 120-pound African lion named Caesar.

The 23-year-old newlyweds, who work as veterinary assistants, said Thursday they will sell their bungalow in this Detroit suburb if it bans lions as pets.

Roseville's City Council has ordered an ordinance up for adoption Tuesday that would ban wild animals as pets. Caesar is the reason for it.

Caesar has been both defanged and declawed, and Hertz says he is "too much like a timid, dependent child for us to abandon him to strangers."

D-Day June 6, 1944

Most Dramatic Day Of My Life, Gen. Taylor Recalls

"It was all so fascinating there was no time to be scared." So it was on D-Day—June 6, 1944—recalls Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, then the brand new commander of the 101st Airborne Division, now the nation's top military man as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Mon general, use this bullet on the Boche."

Thus did an old French farmer welcome Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor to Normandy 20 years ago.

A few hours earlier, in the predawn darkness, Taylor had leaped from a low-flying transport plane to lead the first wave of U.S. paratroopers in the historic assault.

Uncertain where he was, Taylor had walked up to a French farmhouse, knocked on the door and asked for help in getting his bearings.

The old farmer, overjoyed that the Americans had come, disappeared for a moment and then returned with his bullet—a token of his hope for victory over the Germans.

Today, Taylor is the top military man in the United States, and he still recalls D-Day as "the most dramatic day I ever spent in my life."

This says much—for few men living have witnessed as many dramatic and historic days.

In his time, Taylor has slipped alone into Nazi-held Rome to negotiate with the Italians, confronted the Russians as U.S. commander in Berlin, led in some of the most desperate fighting in Korea, sat at President John F. Kennedy's right hand during the Cuban missile crisis.

Recently, the slender, gray-haired soldier of 62 sat in his Pentagon office and chatted with a reporter about D-Day, the 6th of June, 1944.

Now Taylor wears four stars as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He also wears 40 decorations, many for valor.

At the time of Normandy, he had only recently plined on his second star and taken command of the 101st Airborne Division in England.

The assault on Nazi Germany's "Fortress Europe" was the 101st's baptism in battle. It also was Taylor's first combat jump.

Here, after refreshing his recollection, is the way Taylor described that day:

"This was the first action of the 101st—it had to go right. I wanted to be sure that the spirit and confidence of the men were high. I visited all units in their 17 departure areas and talked to the men in groups from 1,000 down to 24.

"We had an early heavy dinner about 6 o'clock. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower accompanied us to the departure airfield. About 11 o'clock at night—it was still daylight there—Gen. Eisenhower went from group to group talking to the men as they got into their parachutes.

"As we got into the air, darkness had just begun to fall. We circled around over southern England and waited for the transport fleets to fall into formation. It was a beautiful sight as we fell into line, straightened out and headed for France.

"As we got closer we saw our greatest enemy—fog. This weather was a surprise. We thought we had a clear night and yet there was a great bank of fog. The planes flew in a formation of V's—almost touching wings—in very tight formation as we crossed the Channel.

"The fog was not continuous—here it was cloudy and there it opened up with the bright quarter moon shining through. We could see the ground from time to time.

"While we were still in the fog, on came the red light, which means—Stand up and check equipment. We lined up tight against the door. The fog lifted just as we got the red light showing four minutes to go—and then cleared completely.

"The plane slowed down to 100 miles an hour—the green light meaning 'jump' came on. The sky was red with rockets—flak of all descriptions—a few burning planes on the ground.

"It was all so fascinating there was no time to be scared. It was the greatest show ever put on for a soldier's eye. There was plenty going on—everybody shooting at something.

"It was a great thrill to get out of the airplane—we jumped from a height of 500 feet, leaving little time to adjust oneself before hitting the ground. I hit the ground with a crash and it took an appreciable length of time to recover.

"The next problem was to get out of the 'chute and it was a battle. I finally had to use my trench knife to cut myself out.

"After I got loose and looked around, there was not an American to be found. The next question was—Where was my division? I sneaked around hedge-row corners looking to find somebody—there was indiscriminate shooting going on everywhere.

In Michigan Strike Hope Sounded To End Violence

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan's mediation director today sounded hopeful that a weekend settlement could be reached in the violent Essex Wire Corp. strike which brought the National Guard to Hillsdale.

Malcolm R. Lovell Jr., chairman of the State Labor Mediation Board, said he was "hopeful that we can finish this (bargaining) up today or Saturday."

"We're meeting in an atmosphere that is cordial and constructive," he said after company and union negotiators emerged from a 10-hour session at 2:30 a.m. They scheduled another meeting for 3 p.m.

"Most of the minor issues have been cleared up," Lovell said. "We're down to the major issues."

There also were developments outside the bargaining room. A union leader accused Gov. George W. Romney of ruining chances for a settlement soon. And a leader of a non-involved union added his criticism of Romney for allowing Essex to operate with nonunion employees, while using the National Guard to keep peace.

Romney angrily accused the company of "unfair labor practices and worse" in the bitter 98-day-old strike, and sought a legal means to shut down the firm's Hillsdale plant a second time.

The governor called out the National Guard one week ago, and closed the plant as part of an emergency order issue in the wake of a series of violent incidents in the strike.

He allowed the plant to reopen Tuesday, however, saying he had no choice once law and order was restored.

International Union of Electrical Workers Local 810 struck the Hillsdale plant Feb. 28. The local, which replaced the Teamsters Union as bargaining agent for 180 Essex employees, seeks a first contract with Essex.

In Washington, James B. Carey, IUE national president, sent Romney a telegram saying:

"Your action in restoring production with strikebreakers at Essex Wire Corp. in Hillsdale has undermined the possibility of a settlement of this dispute in the immediate future, and is totally at odds with the issuance of a complaint by the National Labor Relations Board against the company for bargaining in bad faith."

Speaking to a Michigan AFL-CIO meeting in Lansing, Leona Woodcock, United Auto Workers vice president, charged Romney is using the National Guard in an attempt to "break the strike," with "our tax money."

More than 800 National Guardsmen are patrolling Hillsdale, a city of 7,629. Surrounding Hillsdale County is under a 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew imposed by the governor.

New Vote Slated On Ware Union At Texas Plant

A regional NLRB director has ordered a new vote in a case at San Antonio, Tex., in which the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters sought to be named bargaining agent for employees of the Elgin-Butler Brick Co., the union said today.

Regional Director Clifford Potter of Houston set aside the first election on Feb. 7, in which the IBOP lost by 17 votes, after the union filed objections based on "the extensive pre-election propaganda campaign" it alleged was conducted by the employer.

In a lengthy ruling, the NLRB examiner said in part: "Throughout its entire campaign, the employer dwelled on the inevitability of a strike resulting in extreme economic hardship for its employees and their probable permanent replacement. Coupling this with the employer's thinly veiled threat to its dissatisfied employees that they seek employment elsewhere, I must and do conclude that the employer created an unreasonable fear in the minds of its employees which interfered with and made impossible the exercise of the employees' free choice in the election."

Woman Driver Fined $10 On Patrol Charge

Mrs. Jessie Alberta Ream, 37, of Clark St. was fined $10 and costs today by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff when she pleaded guilty to a State Highway Patrol charge of driving left of center May 28 on County Rd. 435.

The patrol alleged she side-swiped another vehicle in a minor traffic mishap. Mrs. Ream told the court damage to the other car was $90.

Meanwhile, the judge granted a continuance until Tuesday morning in the case of Kenneth Page, 965 Ohio Ave., accused of failure to halt for a stop sign at Palissey St. and Pennsylvania Ave. May 24. The charge was signed by Darrell Grimes of Wellsville.

Bodies Of Drowning Victims Recovered

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—The bodies of two Akron men, who drowned while fishing Wednesday, have been recovered from Muzzy Lake, near Ohio 44 south of here.

The bodies of John F. Doubles, 84, and Harry Brown, 65, were found in seven feet of water near their overturned rowboat, Portage County sheriff's deputies said Thursday. They theorized one of the men may have been stricken by a heart attack and both toppled into the water when the other went to his aid.

Pay TV May Improve Commercial Outlets

Early last year a book called "The People Look at Television" proved pretty conclusively that eggheads are for flushers. The well-educated viewers, the book's researchers found, are given to complaining of the dearth of educational and informational programs, on TV; then, when given the opportunity of watching just such programs, the dirty sneaks will watch Lucy, Paladino or "The Beast With Five Fingers," instead.

NIGHT AFTER NIGHT, week after week, the Nielsen audience figures bear out the fact that not only do highbrows not watch high-minded television; the middle- and lowbrows don't either.

Gosh, there must be someone somewhere out there who watches every "CBS Reports" that comes along and occasionally heaves a nostalgic sigh for the days of "Omnibus."

Is culture poison in the living room? Every living room?

A few weeks ago, here was David Susskind letting the American TV viewer have it right between the eyes.

"I'm sick and tired of television's being the whipping boy for the cultural lag in America," he growled. "I think TV is miles ahead of the American appetite for good things."

AMERICANS, he said, stayed away from his own "East Side West Side" and Richard Boone's series of dramas in droves; and the people's lack of interest in public affairs programming has contributed to a cut-back in such documentaries this season.

"There is something on TV every single night for the selective viewer to enjoy — and he's not doing it," Susskind concluded.

From the audience researchers, then, to the once-bitten-twice-shy producers of quality drama on television, the word seems to be that video culture is about as popular as a bad cold.

And yet, here comes Sylvester L. (Pat) Weaver and his Subscription Television, Inc., about to take the grand plunge — bringing pay-TV to the San Francisco and Los Angeles areas, preparatory to making it a coast-to-coast enterprise in hopefully millions of homes.

THIS IS the largest and boldest pay-television experiment yet.

And Weaver hopes to make it work through the popularity of his programming, which is a general mixture of baseball, movies and culture, the culture ranging from Laurence Olivier's "Uncle Vanya" to "Der Rosenkavalier."

But no sooner was the announcement out of Weaver's head than NBC-TV was spilling the news that it, too, was negotiating with England's BBC on a coproduction deal.

The network was talking specifically of the Olivier-National Theater repertory productions of next season. (The current season has been a smash, with a roaring "Othello" and a lively, touching "St. Joan.")

THUS, at a time when television seems to be tossing out any property that has the look of stern intelligence on its face, there are these sudden confident movies by pay-TV's Weaver and commercial TV's Mort Werner.

Why?

Pay-TV, to establish a beachhead, must not only look entertaining (baseball), but it must look important, too (Olivier). It must offer the kind of program that's worth a family's $1.50 or $2. (Who's ready to plunk down 12 bits for "The Patty Duke Show" every Wednesday night?)

Perhaps "Uncle Vanya" is not going to get Miss Duke's rating, but it will pull in enough bucks to pay for itself, I'll bet. And the family that feels it is ready for Pat Weaver is also ready for Anton Chekov.

THE COMMERCIAL broadcasters know this, too. And if they are wise men, they will keep one step ahead of Mr. Weaver and offer enough quality drama and high-level public affairs material to forestall the enemy.

The networks should know that, once they've irreparably lost that minority audience that would tune in on an Olivier or an "Omnibus," they have lost their claim to distinction.

("Omnibus," even David Susskind should remember, went off the air with a few million viewers faithful to the end. So did "Playhouse 90.")

I hope pay-TV serves increasingly as a good to the CBS, NBC and ABC boys. It would be nice to see some good drama come back and an occasional voice of greatness.

A brief postscript:

The foregoing sermon does not mean to suggest that "cultural" stuff is by its nature good or that something a bit less elevated is bad.

A local New York station put on a BBC production of "Wuthering Heights" the other night, with Claire Bloom as Cathy and Keith Mitchell as Heathcliff.

It was crude, clumsy, makeshift and disastrous. But I suppose if we can be tolerant of Lucille Ball on an off-night, we can learn to put up with an under-the-weather Emily Bronte, too.

Conference Set To Get Glenmoor Blinker Lights

A delegation from the St. Clair Township Development Association is scheduled to confer with township trustees later this month concerning plans for seeking school warning blinker lights at Glenmoor.

The group has discussed the need for lights on the Y. & O. Rd. near the school crossing and on Lisbon St. near the Glenmoor United Presbyterian Church.

Plans are also being considered for obtaining a traffic signal at the intersection of Route 170 and the Y. & O. Rd. at Glenmoor, and for possible resurfacing of St. Clair Ave. Ext. North of the city limits in connection with the planned St. Clair Ave. improvement inside the city.

Members said it is expected the traffic flow will increase on outer St. Clair Ave. when the improvement is completed.

The association has canceled regular meetings for July and August, but special meetings may be called.

Mother, Child Change For The Better

If I were able to pass along in this column every day a true account of how a child, once a laggard, suddenly improved, I might do more good than in any other way. Here's one success story, from Yokohama, Japan: "Dear Dr. Myers: In a recent column of yours, in Dr. Garry Myers our Pacific Stars and Stripes, you asked parents, who have seen lagging children improve, to tell about it.

"The story of our Jennifer's turn-about is truly miraculous, and it all happened in the past four months.

"Jennifer is our middle child, ten and a half. She has a sister, 13, and a brother, five. She's always been slow-eating, playing, walking. I'm sure the very first words she heard us utter were 'hurry up!'

"JENNIFER gradually withdrew into herself. I described it as 'going behind her eyes.' I could talk to her holler at her, cajole, wheedle, bribe — it meant nothing to her. She just looked at me with those vacant eyes.

"Two years ago, when we came to Japan (we are civilians with the government here), Jennifer started getting much worse. Her schoolwork declined badly. I had almost constant conferences with her teachers (she was in the middle of the third grade when we moved here)."

Then this mother tells of a major surgical operation she underwent.

"I had a lot of time to think. That was the first step in Jennifer's miraculous change. . . I tried to remember how I'd felt at ten."

The second contribution to the "rejuvenation" of Jennifer was the assistance of an unusual domestic helper, said the mother, "who made me develop such a degree of self-control that just thinking about it now simply staggers me.

"SO I LEARNED not to say harsh things until I'd thought them over at least several hours. Little by little I realized this self-control was asserting itself on the kids, too. . . I quit spanking the girls; I stopped hollering, nagging and it was about the hardest thing I've ever had to do."

A third factor was a young physician who urged the mother to seek psychiatric help.

"If I had to say the one thing that helped me most," said Jennifer's mother, "I suppose I'd say thinking — thinking back, thinking ahead, thinking inward."

Earlier in her letter she stated that she and her husband are religious. . . "Every day, almost every moment, I simply say, 'God, please help me.'"

Jennifer's very good with her hands. Makes good drawings, etc. She writes the most astounding poetry, too. We never thought she'd be more than an average student — but she's risen, in about a month and a half, to the top of her (combined 5th-6th) class! Her teacher is enormously pleased, and Jenni (as we call her) senses it.

"JENNI, TWO months ago, was the most miserable speller — almost always failed the tests. Now, she almost always makes 100. Believe me, it's a miracle. I think she almost doesn't believe it herself!

"Socially, Jenni still has a long way to go. She's so terribly shy and hesitant. But, you know, the most unbelievable thing is that she isn't slow anymore. She hurries with her eating, she does her homework quickly (but not neatly, yet)."

"P.S. Your chair-sitting works beautifully for my five-year-old boy — and he's learning to tell time, too!"

The amazing thing about this letter is that the miracle of Jennifer's change is attributed by the mother to the change in herself.

Former Suffragette Claimed At Age 94

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Miss Katharine Seymour Day, former suffragette who was largely responsible for preserving Mark Twain's Hartford home, died Thursday in her home — a former residence of Harriet Beecher Stowe.

Miss Day, 94, was descended from Thomas Hooker, the Congregational clergyman who was among the founding fathers of Hartford. She also was related to the famed Beecher family.

During her suffragette days she once rode on horseback from house to house to rally support for women's voting rights.

City Will Receive Bids June 19 On Sale Of Vehicles

Mayor Merrill D. Hall and Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey will open bids June 19 on sale of four old city vehicles, including a 35-year-old fire truck, two police cruisers and a pickup truck.

The rolling stock, all now withdrawn from city service, is: a 1929 model Seagraves fire truck; a half-ton model 1958 Ford pickup truck formerly used by the dog warden and two four-door sedans that were used as police cruisers — a 1963 model Plymouth and a 1961 Chevrolet.

The Seagraves fire truck was replaced by an American - LaFrance model the city acquired in 1963. The cruisers were taken out of service when the city bought two 1964 Chevrolets. The dog warden was given a former police cruiser as a replacement for the pickup truck he once used.

Vodrey said prospective bidders may inspect the vehicles. The old fire truck is at North Side station, the pickup is at the sewage disposal plant and the two old cruisers are in the police garage.

Philippines Clamps Mail Ban On Time

MANILA (AP)—The Philippine Postoffice has banned the current issue of Time magazine from the mails because it carries a reproduction of Goya's famous painting "The Naked Maja."

Acting Postmaster General Belarmino Navarro said that the painting is considered obscene under the postal law.

'PIGEONS AND DISEASE

Q. Can pigeons transmit diseases to humans?

A. Pigeon excreta may contain a variety of viruses and germs that cause disease in man. For example, the virus of ornithosis, a disease similar to parrot fever, is frequently acquired from pigeons. The birds are susceptible to the disease and usually continue to discharge the virus in their excreta for long periods after recovery. A fungus organism (Histoplasma capsulatum) grows in pigeon droppings. Inhalation of dried material containing this organism has been incriminated as a cause of a disease in man which may be fatal. Several other conditions are known or suspected to be pigeon-spread to man.

EARDRUMS IN FLIGHT

Q. How can ear discomfort during and after flight be prevented? Are ear-plugs helpful?

A. Persons susceptible to this type of annoyance should chew gum or engage in repeated swallowing during descent. The only value of ear-plugs is to lessen annoyance caused by the noise of the aircraft engines. This is most noticeable in older-type piston-engined craft. The noise level in modern jet-engined planes is unlikely to prove annoying to anyone other than the most susceptible.

It is now possible to promise a firm delivery date on the 1964 Imperial

CIDAA

For several months after the introduction of the 1964 Imperial, the great number of early orders made it impossible for us to promise a firm delivery date.

However, this situation has finally been overcome. And we are pleased to announce that we now have a representative selection of Imperial models in stock.

Also for the first time this year, Imperial demonstrators are available. So, now is the best time for you to experience the quiet world of Imperial.

May we schedule a comparison drive? At your convenience, of course. A phone call will do it.

85 Counties Receive School Bus Transportation Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An additional $1,043,000 has been released by the State Controlling Board for public school bus transportation in 85 counties.

House speaker Roger Cloud R-Logan, said the amount "will provide for 90 per cent of all transportation for the current year in Ohio school districts."

Cloud added that the additional money will boost this year's subsidy to almost $16.5 million, compared with about $16 million last year.

The controlling board session Thursday also released $659,412 to municipal universities and state university branches, the final payment of the fiscal year from the $1.7 million general fund appropriation.

In addition, Central State University got $189,000 to plan two new classroom buildings and for extension of water, sewer and steam lines.

The board also approved more than $250,000 for 66 new camp sites and a bath house at Hueston Woods State Park in Butler and Preble counties.

The funds for municipal universities and branches of state universities included:

University of Cincinnati $254,341; University of Toledo $143,706; University of Akron $131,224; Ohio State University $117,837; Ohio University $94,404; Kent State University $73,480; Bowling Green State University $25,628; Miami University $18,493 and Central State $294.

Canadian Calls For Piggy-Back Truck Service

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Canadian transportation executive has proposed piggy-back truck-trailer service between Cleveland and Canadian ports on the other side of Lake Erie.

Louis P. Miranda, president of Uscan Transport, Ltd., outlined his plan Thursday at a luncheon meeting of the shippers committee of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

He said four ships belonging to the McCarthy fleet now laid up in Detroit would be used in the year-round operation. Each ship could carry up to 80 trailers.

Uscan is now negotiating with McCarthy for purchase or charter of the fleet, Miranda said. This would be a lift-on, lift-off operation using a fleet of USCan tractors in Canada and the tractors of various American truck lines on this side of the lake, Miranda explained.

Hints from Heloise

—By Heloise Cruse—

Dear Folks: I recently went to a backyard party in the neighborhood. I noticed that my hostess had little paper cups turned upside down in her flower bed. I asked her what they were for.

She told me that when she transplanted seedlings and small bushes to a new bed she always used these paper cups to turn upside down over the small tender plants. Here's what to do:

Take your fingernail and punch a hole in the bottom of the cup. Turn the cups upside down and place over the plant. Take your ice pick and poke some holes in the sides, too. This allows the extreme heat to escape.

These cups protect the plant when the sun is so hot that it dries out the bed too fast and the little roots cannot keep its proper moisture.

At the end of each day you can lift up the cup and the earth right around the little plant will be moist. This makes for faster growth.

As this woman's plants grew bigger and bigger she put larger cups on them. When they got just right, she removed the cups and let 'em grow!

HELOISE.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
DEAR HELOISE: One day, my 5-year-old son, Stephen, pretended he was the cook. He was boiling an old hen. I asked how long it should cook. He said, "Heloise says three minutes and an hour!"

MRS. VIOLET BALES.

DEAR HELOISE: Some time ago, my sister gave us small gifts of bright, solid-color, dust cloths made of outflannel. She tied them with pretty ribbon and they made a gay and different gift.

The dust cloths were about 10 or 12 inches square. They are simply ideal for dusting... and go right in the washing machine.

This week I bought gay, lovely flannel prints and made some more of these dust cloths. Dusting is a breeze now... You can get all sorts of beautiful cotton flannel prints quite inexpensively. MRS. PHILIP H. CANTRELL

DEAR HELOISE: For your readers who have parakeets or canaries, their birds may benefit from this suggestion:

Instead of washing off the cage perches daily — use an emery board or sandpaper. This is splendid for keeping the perches dry and clean.

Damp perches are injurious to a bird's feet.

MRS. J. L. GARRITY.

DEAR HELOISE: Before going away on a trip, I water house plants well, then slip plastic garment bags over them — pot and all, tucking the opening under the saucer of the pot.

I place the plants in a light but not very sunny window, and when I return, the plants are moist and thriving.

I have done this repeatedly and have been so pleased with my plants on my return home. I use a bag large enough so that leaves are not crowded against the sides because quite a bit of condensation takes place.

LOIS L. KLINE.

Ladies, I know this to be true. I tried it myself before going on a week's trip and my plants were as beautiful as ever when I returned home.

I left my covered plants in our bathtub after sprinkling them well under the shower. Thanks, Lois.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: IF your teen-agers do the dishes at your home, and use twice as much liquid soap as they should, save an empty bottle and mix half water and half soap.

Works like a charm! But don't let them catch you watering it down or you've lost the battle before it even starts.

U.S.-Canada Unit Is Proposed On Water Planning

CHICAGO (AP) — The Great Lakes Commission has recommended regulation of lakes waters by a joint agency representing the national governments of the United States and Canada.

The commission Thursday asked Secretary of State Dean Rusk to sound out Canada on reversal of northward-flowing Canadian rivers into the Great Lakes.

Commission Chairman Albert Meserow's letter to Rusk cited recent low levels of the lakes and the St. Lawrence River and said the study should include "the reversal of certain Canadian rivers that now wastefully flow into the Hudson Bay."

The Great Lakes Commission the Great Lakes basin compact joined by Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, New York, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Ohio.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Diet, Exercise Have Own Purposes

Which is most important in a figure fixing program — diet or exercise? The answer depends on whether you are overweight generally or only in spots.

For reducing excess pounds, diet is the only effective measure. Soft living makes soft muscles and for slimming in spots, exercise is the technique.

What happens when you take regular exercise but eat normally? You'll have well-toned muscles and a shapely figure, provided your weight is within normal range. You will feel fit, and you may measure slimmer, but you will not lose pounds. If you eat beyond your calorie needs, weight will creep up, exercising to the contrary.

Even ideal weight does not guarantee a perfect figure. Flabby muscles allow the figure to spread.

DIET WON'T do a thing for flabby muscles, but exercise can work toning wonders. So, if you are overweight only in spots, skip the diet and take a small amount of regular exercise.

Here is a trio of all-purpose conditioners.

Position: Standing, arms arched overhead.

Action: Stretch upward, pulling waist up out of hips, and lifting ribs up out of the waist — lift! Holding the up-pull, bend forward at the hips, bending until the trunk is at a right angle. Now, push with arms out in front of the body... p-u-s-h, always maintaining the up-pull with the middle muscles.

Hold this muscle contraction for a slow count of six, or six seconds. Then, from this same forward bending posture, swing arms back and up as high as you can reach.

Pull head up too, but keep shoulders down and relaxed. Relax and repeat the routine three times, always holding the contraction to a slow count of six.

The aim of the second exercise is to tone the brace of abdominal muscles.

Position: Stand with back to wall, arms down at sides, feet just slightly out from wall.

Action: Raise both arms overhead as one knee is bent and lifted toward chest.

TRY AGAIN, lifting opposite knee toward chest, and this time try to touch small of back to the wall. The emphasis should be in pulling up with the girdle muscles as knee is bent toward chest, also in pulling the waist out of the hips as arms are raised overhead.

Repeat three times, and again hold the muscle contraction to a count of six.

Finish with a thorough-going stretch. Just stretch and stretch until you feel released and relaxed.

Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for "For A Slimmer Midriff," to Ida Jean Kain, in care of The Review. Post card requests cannot be answered.

Red Commemorative Stamp Sneaked Out, Report Says

SIDNEY, Ohio (AP)—A European correspondent's article in this week's Linn Stamp News says a commemorative stamp for three dead Russian astronauts still orbiting the earth has "sneaked out" in the Soviet Union.

Without describing the stamp or the conditions of its issuance, the article purports that the stamp honors "Fedosenko, Usiskin" and "Wasenko," three astronauts "perpetually circling the globe in their spatial coffins."

According to Bob Jones, associate editor of the weekly stamp collectors newspaper, the article was written by a London collector using the pen name R. Y. Megan. Jones said Megan is a man with "good contacts" and has been writing for the 70,000-circulation tabloid for many years.

Megan does not indicate whether he has seen the stamp, but he says it "sneaked out without further promotion." Megan also writes there is a memorial erected in the astronauts honor "in a place called Saransk."

Questioning whether there are some "fascinating unissued" stamps, Megan says that on the day of every Russian astronaut's space shot, there is a stamp issue "complete with portrait of the astronaut and planned time of flight, duration and orbital inclination."

The author said he met the director of the foreign section of the Soviet post office last year and "he firmly denied that any Russian astronauts had lost their lives and considered the whole thing an infamous slander on the U. S. S. R."

Resort Capital Going 'All-Out'

Democratic Convention
Spotlights Atlantic City

Usually the Miss America pageants are held there, but this summer, Convention Hall in Atlantic City, N. J., will be the site of the Democratic National Convention to pick the party standard bearer in the presidential elections. The following second of two articles on the Republican and Democratic conventions shows what plans are being drawn to make the latter event the biggest and best in the history of this resort town.

By TOM SEPPY
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—This resort likes to call itself the "Convention Capital of the United States" and it plans to show the country it deserves that title during the Democratic National Convention this summer.

"It's important to us," said one official. "We've never had such an opportunity to put our best foot forward before so many people. This convention has given us the heaviest concentration of exposure we've ever had and we don't want to mess it up."

It is the first time that New Jersey ever has been selected as the site of a national political convention by either major party. With a population of only 60,000, this is the smallest city ever to be host to such a convention.

There have been bigger conventions held in this Atlantic resort city—with its famed boardwalk, hotels, motels, and eating places—since it actively began to seek conventions in an organized manner in 1909. But none of the some 15,000 held in the past—more than 500 were to be held here this year—has put the spotlight so directly on the city.

The convention will open Aug. 24 at the municipal Convention Hall, claimed to be the largest indoor arena in the world. Most hotel and motel rooms are within walking distance of the hall.

Some 5,200 delegates and alternates, plus their families and news media representatives and others will bring probably 25,000 to the convention.

The main room of the hall, which can seat 41,000 persons, has no obstructions and is so tall that a 13-story building could be set on the floor without touching the roof. It is at Convention Hall that the annual Miss America pageants are held.

The ballroom of the hall seats 5,000 and there are 34 committee or meeting rooms that can accommodate from 25 to 500 people.

State and city officials and businessmen bid feverishly to get the presidential nomination convention here this year, especially since New Jersey is celebrating its 300th anniversary during 1964.

They made a combined $625,000 financial commitment which included $175,000 from local businesses and city government, $200,000 from the state government, and $250,000 from the host committee, a bipartisan group of state businessmen.

The city also agreed to air-condition the hall, a $2-million undertaking that required a bond issue. The hall, which the Democrats will use rent-free, was scheduled to be air-conditioned anyway, but obtaining the convention moved up the completion date to July 1 of this year.

Another $160,000 will pay for 7,000 new seats and $200,000 is being invested in new lighting. Work is well along on the installation of 300 mercury vapor lights in the ceiling of the main hall.

Why is the city investing so much money, especially since many hotel and motel people did not want the convention because it will be here during the height of the summer season—the week beginning Aug. 24? "On a normally good three-day holiday in the summer, like the July 4th weekend, bank deposits run about $15 million," said one city official. "Spread that over the week the convention will be here and that means some $30 million will be spent in the city."

"And we have a captive audience. Unlike tourists or vacationers, the delegates can't leave the city if we have bad weather."

In addition to the money being invested, city officials have sponsored classes in courtesy, sales and merchandising attended by personnel who will come in contact with the public.

The city's director of public safety, Meredith B. Kerstetter, has been working out the extra police and fire protection required for the convention.

The bulk of the actual physical setup of the hall was not expected to get started until July 1, after the last of the June conventions leave.

Frank H. McCue, general manager of the hall and a 35-year veteran of conventions, will see to it that the seats are placed correctly and that television, radio, magazine and newspaper facilities are in the right places.

Depending on how these finally shape up, he will have plans drawn for a wooden tongue, probably some 40 feet long, running out into the center of the auditorium from the main platform.

"That will be the rostrum," he said, "from which the speeches will be made."

The biggest single problem connected with the convention here was dropped into the laps of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. and the long-lines department of American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

The job involves the largest service assignment in the history of New Jersey Bell, which expects it will cost upward of $5 million.

Facilities had to be set up for the radio and television networks, as well as extra telephone lines.

The company is putting in 67,000 circuit miles of cable—a circuit mile consisting of a pair of wires a mile long.

The Congress of Racial Equality has announced plans for mass nonviolent demonstrations to be held in the city to point up alleged racial discrimination in the home states of some of the delegates.

CORE can be expected to be joined by demonstrators from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and the resort itself.

National Church
Council Endorses
Experiment Plan

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Council of Churches, a major Protestant and Orthodox agency, has endorsed an experimental shared-time program under which Roman Catholic children attend both parochial and public schools.

The program is intended to lighten the financial burden on parents whose children attend Church-operated schools.

The council's General Board said in a policy statement Thursday the shared time program is "a viable provision for those who, for conscience sake, maintain separate schools." It is used in 300 schools in 35 states.

The statement noted that increasing costs of education had caused Roman Catholics to ask for public funds for parochial schools and that in general Protestants have opposed the request.

Frank Woods, 12, son of Jack Woods, 1851 Smithfield St., was treated last night for a laceration of the right leg received in a fall from a sliding board.

Struck on the head by a ball while playing baseball, John Johnson, 13, son of Kenneth Johnson, 1185 Harker Ave., suffered a cut of the head.

Randy McVay, 11, son of Homer McVay of 9th Ave., La-Croft, received a puncture wound of the foot when he stepped on a nail while playing ball.

Brenda Lee Nally, 2, daughter of John Nally of Finley Rd., Chester, fell on a mop bucket, receiving a cut of the lip.

Mrs. Fred Lister, 826 River-view St., suffered fractured ribs in a fall in the yard at home.

DeMolays' Rifle Team Will Meet

Members of the rifle team of the Harding Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will meet Saturday at 9 a.m. at the rifle range.

Members needing transportation should report to the Masonic Temple by 8:30 a.m., Ed Birch, master counselor, announced at the chapter's meeting Thursday night.

Members interested in attending the state convocation Aug. 13-16 at the Netherlands Hotel in Cincinnati should contact David Hoffman, treasurer, within the next two weeks.

Birch announced the chapter would serve as escorts for Job's Daughters on June 12.

A hayride will be held June 19 from 8:30 to 11 p.m. at Hoffman's farm. "Buddy Night" will be observed and members of Job's Daughters are invited.

The meeting closed following prayer by Rick Tisher.

GETS THE MESSAGE! Jack Huff, 7, of 124 Church Alley, Chester, meets a talking "Mr. Zip" installed in the lobby of the Chester Post Office this morning by Postmaster Robert H. Edwards. A push of the button starts a tape recorder and the narrator goes into an explanation of the new digit system designed to speed up mail delivery. The wail of a trumpet backed by a Dixieland band brings on "Miss Zip" Ethel Merman — who sings about the Zip Code to the tune of "Zip Ah De Doo Day." The promotional device arrived Thursday night.

Amos 'n' Andy Return To TV Sparks Civil Rights Protest

CHICAGO (AP) — Amos 'n' Andy returned to Chicago television Thursday night with an off-screen chorus of protest from Negro civil rights spokesmen.

"Tonight inaugurates the long, hot summer," snapped Chuck Stone, editor of The Defender, a Negro daily newspaper.

But as much as civil rights leaders deplored it, some said they wished there were more indignation among average Negroes.

Stone, whose paper largely serves Chicago's 900,000 Negroes, said he thinks the program introduced "the long, hot summer" of troubled race relations for two reasons: "First, white people all like it. Amos 'n' Andy really is funny. No doubt about it."

"But I doubt that most white people can watch that show and say to themselves that all Negroes aren't like that. They can't. And first thing you know, one of them is going to be calling some Negro, 'Hey, Amos.'"

"Second, I'm a little disturbed about what it can do to young Negroes who are growing up, who are searching for racial pride. I'm afraid it will make them hate white people even more."

But, he conceded, there hasn't been an uproar in the Negro community. Most Negroes are just going to watch it and enjoy it."

John Weigel, president of WCUI-TV, defended the show on his station as "an all-time classic."

"I think it in no way degrades or stereotypes the Negro. The people in the show live on a high level. They don't live in poverty."

Edwin Berry, director of the Chicago Urban League, said "Weigel represents the shallow kind of understanding that unsophisticated people have of race relations."

There were no demonstrators at the station when the evening show went on the air. The reruns of the television show started in 1951 will be shown twice a week.

Wion Changes Mind . . .

Bob Wion, the highly successful football coach at Martins Ferry, apparently has changed his mind about accepting the grid vacancy at East Liverpool High School.

We understand Wion may have a college offer coming up in year or so and there would be no sense in making a change for one year.

As it stands now, the football job continues to be wide open, but interviews are being conducted.

Frank Chan, Potter reserve coach, appears to be one of the leading candidates for the head basketball post.

Hoak Seeking Diamond Job . . .

BEFORE a Pittsburgh game recently we bumped into Don Hoak, the former Pirate and Phillies third sacker.

The Tiger informed us that he would like to get back into baseball either as a coach with a major league team or as a manager in the high minors. Hoak said he would not return as a player.

Hoak was released by the Phils several weeks ago when Richie Allen, the outstanding rookie, took over the hot corner job.

ANOTHER ex-Pirate out of a job at present is Gino Cimoli. We saw Cimoli in Baltimore during a visit there last week. He sat in the stands watching the Twins-Orioles doubleheader. The outfielder was in Baltimore trying to hook on with Orioles.

This 'N That In Sports . . .

TALKING to Bernie Allen briefly in Baltimore, the Twins' second baseman said the big problem with the Minnesota club is relief pitching.

"We don't have that stopper this year," Bernie said. An example of this shows that the Twins have jumped out to early leads but faded in the last few innings. They were leading 4-0 after two innings in Baltimore and wound up losing the game 5-4.

ENOUGH baseball. We see were Steve Baldwin, the former Wellsville star who has shown great improvement since his high schools days, will enroll at Steubenville College.

Because of his transfer the 6-7 Baldwin will have to sit out one year before he is eligible for varsity competition.

REMEMBER Ray Terry, the halfback on the once-beaten Steubenville Big Red team and teammate of Harry Wilson? Ray is scheduled to see action both ways for Indiana University in his sophomore season when the grid campaign rolls around.

SAM SIMMONS, leading scorer for the Oak Glen cagers last season, may attend Shepherd College or Fairmont College. Both schools have expressed interest in landing Sam for basketball.

WE ARE sure many sports fans recall Frankie Baumholtz, the former outfielder with the Chicago Cubs. His son, Frank Jr., seems to be following in his footsteps as far as college goes.

The younger Baumholtz is not the baseball player his father was but has made his mark on the gridiron and basketball court at Cleveland Rhodes.

Like his father he will enroll at Ohio University. The elder Baumholtz was a star basketball player at OU, leading the 1941 squad to the NIT finals where he was named most valuable player of the tournament.

DICK MCKERNAN, former ELHS and Baldwin-Wallace hurler, has just completed his most successful season in the coaching ranks. Guiding the Lakewood freshman baseball team, his squad recorded an 8-2 mark, the best any frosh squad ever had at Lakewood.

This summer Dick will be busy as director of the baseball program in Lakewood. His position involves supervision of some 2,500 boys and 140 teams.

SEVERAL former athletes will be present when the Class of 1934 holds its reunion June 13 at the Willows.

Bob Stewart, Bill Laughlin and Bill Dietz, who played on the same team with the immortal Bill Booth, will be present along with the coaches of that era, Tom Dixon and Leland Schachern.

One Walk Spoils Perfect Contest

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sandy Koufax pitched a no-hitter against the Philadelphia Phillies Thursday night, the third of his career, and might have had a perfect game if he had given in to a second thought.

The 28-year-old Koufax walked one batter—Richie Allen in the fourth inning—as he hurled the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 3-0 victory.

Talking with newsmen in the clubhouse after the masterpiece that made him the fourth pitcher in major league history to toss three no-hitters, Koufax lamented about the fourth ball he served to Allen.

"It's a funny thing," he related. "Doug (Dodgers' catcher Doug Camilli) called for a curve on the 3-3 pitch and I shook him off for the fast ball."

"Then, while I was winding up I thought to myself, 'Doug's right, a curve would be better.' But I didn't think fast enough and instead of stepping off the rubber as I should have, I went through with the fast ball."

"It was low, no doubt of that," confessed the southpaw. Why hadn't he simply changed the pitch while going through his motion?

"You just can't do that. It's like stopping on the back swing in golf. You just don't." Koufax, who conducts an interview like a politician campaigning for election, smooth, and with supreme confidence, stood next to his locker and answered questions interminably.

He disclosed that his fine performance against the league leading Phillies was the result of a careful study he has been making of his pitching form that revealed a fault in his delivery. He explained:

"I have been studying pictures in magazines of my form and suddenly realized that I had been stepping too far to the left, with the right foot across my body, sort of blocking myself out."

"Tonight (Thursday) in the first few innings I concentrated on making an adjustment, stepping more to the right. It felt fine. I had my old pitching rhythm back."

"As a matter of fact by the fifth inning I forgot all about it. Everything was coming natural again. I was throwing the way I wanted to for the first time this season."

Koufax Joins Feller With 3rd No-Hitter

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Sandy Koufax has finished practicing.

He finished about halfway through the third no-hitter of his major league career, allowing only one walk in a 3-0 victory over Philadelphia Thursday night and joining Bob Feller as the only triple no-hitter hurlers in modern baseball history.

Minutes later, in the Los Angeles Dodgers' dressing room, the unshaven Koufax made a startling revelation—in the first few innings he was just trying to adjust his motion.

"I have been studying pictures in magazines of my form," Koufax explained, "and suddenly realized that I had been stepping too far to the left with the right foot across my body."

"So in the first few innings I concentrated on making an adjustment, stepping more to the right. It felt fine. I had the old pitching rhythm back."

No one knew it was missing.

Sandy Spins 3-0 Game At Phils

FRIDAY, JUNE 5, 1964

Koufax had not been the sensational pitcher he was last year when he won Most-Valuable-Player honors and the Cy Young Award as the best pitcher in the majors. But everyone presumed he was still shaking off an early season injury.

Against the Phillies, it was difficult to tell where Koufax corrected his mistake. Only four balls were hit to the outfield and the closest thing to a hit was Richie Allen's slow grounder in the seventh inning, scooped up by third baseman Jim Gilliam, who quickly fired to first for the out.

Allen also was the lone Phillies' baserunner but was thrown out attempting to steal after walking on a 3-2 pitch in the fourth inning.

Feller, the only other pitcher to hurl three no-hitters, in post-1900 action, was in Cleveland

Thursday night as the Indians played the Chicago White Sox. He wasn't at all surprised that Koufax had matched his three no-hitters.

"Why, the way this guy's going," said Feller, "he may get three more of them before he's through."

Feller didn't see his favorites win, the Indians losing to the White Sox 5-1. In the only other American League game played, the New York Yankees defeated Minnesota 9-7.

In other National League action, Pittsburgh whipped San Francisco 4-2, the Chicago Cubs edged St. Louis 2-1, Cincinnati downed Milwaukee 6-3 and Houston beat the New York Mets 7-3.

Koufax, bringing his record to 6-4 with the 99th victory of his career, struck out 12 Phillies, and thus tied another record. It was the 54th time in his career he had struck out 10 or more batters, equalling the mark previously shared by Feller and Rube Waddell.

Koufax got the only runs he needed when Frank Howard hit his 14th homer in the seventh inning off Chris Short following singles by Gilliam and Tommy Davis.

Rookie Steve Blass checked the Giants on five hits while the Pirates struck for four runs in the fourth and put it away. Willie Stargell singled home the first run in the uprising, Bill Mazeroski singled home two more and Bob Bolin forced in the final run with a bases-loaded walk.

The Cubs and Cardinals played the season's fastest game in the NL, Ron Santo's two-run homer in the fourth providing Chicago's runs while Charley James homered for St. Louis. It was Santo's third homer in three games and gave Dick Ellsworth, 7-4, the edge against Bob Gibson, 5-2, in a battle of six-hitters.

Frank Robinson's second home run of the game, a three-run shot in the ninth, gave the Reds their victory. The Braves pulled off a triple play in the second inning when Leo Cardenas lined to Mike de la Hoz with two men on. The second baseman flipped to shortstop Denis Menke for the second out and the relay to first nailed No. 3. Dick Farrell brought his record to 8-1 against the Mets with 3-2-3 innings of no-hit relief work by Don Larsen. The Colts, meanwhile, collected 15 hits—four each by Bob Lillis and Eddie Kasko—and were aided by four New York errors.

Richardson Goes 5-For-5 In Yanks' Win Over Twins

By The Associated Press
Bobby Richardson is hitting more and striking out less.

Actually, if he would strike out any less, he wouldn't.

Richardson, who has fanned only twice in 184 times at bat this season, struck five hits for the second time this season as the New York Yankees outlasted Minnesota 9-7 Thursday.

The perfect performance boosted the second baseman's batting average to .310. Only three games ago Richardson was hitting .282.

Only three other players in the majors have belted five hits in a game this season. Richardson was the first to do it, banging out five singles in the first game of a doubleheader against Cleveland May 10.

His hits Thursday consisted of four singles and a double. He also scored twice and drove in a run.

"It can't be explained," Richardson said of his feat. "Frequently you hit three or four good balls during a game, but they will be right at somebody. For a day like this, they have to all go to the right spot; mine did."

Richardson's strikeout rate, or near lack of it, is even more phenomenal than his five-hit production. He always has been among the league leaders in fewest strikeouts, but there may not even be a contest this season.

For the past three years, Richardson has fanned an average of 23 times in 661 plate appearances, or once every 29 times at bat. If he maintains his present rate for the same number of at bats, he would fan only seven times.

Only one other game was played in the American League Thursday. Chicago defeated Cleveland in that one 5-1. Rain washed out the Baltimore-Kansas City game.

Even with Richardson's hitting, the Yankees needed three-run homers by Joe Pepitone and Roger Maris for their victory. Pepitone connected in the four-run first while Maris' blow gave New York a 9-5 lead in the fourth.

Reliever Pete Mikkelsen won his fourth game against one defeat, pitching his way out of jams in the last three innings.

Ray Herbert and Frank Kreutzer limited the Indians to five hits. Kreutzer didn't give up anything after relieving Herbert in the sixth. The White Sox starter had to leave the game when his elbow stiffened.

The game was tied 1-1 in the sixth until Al Weis singled and Floyd Robinson slammed his seventh homer. The Indians scored in the first on Dick Howser's double, an infield out and Leon Wagner's sacrifice fly.

Wins Baseball Title

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — Miami-Dade, Fla., crushed host Mesa of Grand Junction, 19-5 Thursday night for the championship of the National Junior College Baseball Tournament.

Veteran's, Vernon Dell, Medics Post LL Victories

Veteran Plate Glass continued its first place leadership with a 7-1 victory over Travelers Hotel in the American Division of the Little League. The win was its sixth straight.

Randy McVay the winning pitcher fanned nine batters as Steve Davis led an eight-hit attack with two singles. McVay allowed only three hits. Don Smith was the loser.

Vernon Dell notched a 3-1 victory over Golden Star with Kim Kemple's home run and single featuring a seven-hit attack. Fred Brown, doubled and singled for the losers. Eckles was the losing moundman.

The Medics, behind the four-hit pitching of Parsons, topped McBurney's, 4-1. Aaron and Reynolds had two hits each and

Northern Dancer Faces 7 In Belmont Stakes

Triple Crown At Stake For Turf Star

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Northern Dancer put his bid for thoroughbred racing's elusive Triple Crown on the line Saturday against seven other 3-year-olds.
And it's 3-to-5 that the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner will accomplish the feat by winning the 96th running of the $125,000-added Belmont Stakes before an Aqueduct crowd of some 65,000 and a national television and radio audience.
Only eight horses have put together the triple in the 90 years in which the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont have been run. The last was Citation in 1948. Since then just two colts, Tim Tam and Carry Back have come up to the 1 1/2 miles of the Belmont with a chance for a sweep. Outsiders ruined both—for Tim Tam in 1958 and Carry Back in 1961.
In addition to Northern Dancer from E. P. Taylor's Windfields Farm of Canada, the names of El Peco's Hill Rise of California; Paul Mellon's Virginia-bred Quadrangle; Roman Brother, the mighty mite from Louis E. Wolfson's Harbor View Farm; Orientalist from John Galbreath's Shreve Dan Farm; George D. Widener's Brave Lad and Herbert Allen's Shock and Determined Man were scheduled to be dropped into the entry box today. Galbreath won last year with Chateaugay.
With eight starters the race will be worth $154,600. The winner will earn the richest Belmont purse of $10,850 with $25,000 for second, $12,500 third and $6,250 fourth. There were originally 146 nominations at $100 each. It costs another $250 to enter and an additional $1,000 to start.
Post time is 3:45 p.m., EST with television (CBS) scheduled for 3:30-4 p.m. and radio (CBS) from 3:40-4 p.m.
From the position of the second choice to Hill Rise in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness the Dancer has established himself as the short-priced favorite. He won the Derby by a neck over Hill Rise and beat the Scoundrel, now sidelined by an injury, by 2 1/4 lengths in the Preakness. Hill Rise was a nose back in third.
Roman Brother ran fourth in the Derby and a dismal fifth in the Preakness but came back to take last Saturday's Jersey Derby over 1 1/2 miles. Quadrangle was fifth in the Derby and fourth in the Preakness and then turned in a top effort for runner-up honors behind the 5-year-old Olden Times in the Metropolitan Handicap last Saturday.
Bill Hartack and Willie Shoemaker will occupy their familiar seats atop Northern Dancer and Hill Rise, respectively.
Midland Seeking Grid, Basketball Assistants
The Midland Board of Education has said that they are still seeking applications for the positions of assistant coaches in both basketball and football.
Those seeking the positions should be certified to teach commercial, mathematics, chemistry or physics courses.

Bizzarro Makes First Garden Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—After 55 pro fights, Johnny Bizzarro of Erie, Pa., finally gets a main event in Madison Square Garden tonight only to bump into a red hot fighter, Frankie Narvaez, with a 13-bout winning streak.
Both are aiming high. Bizzarro, rated No. 1 or No. 2 in the junior lightweight—130 pounds—class by the various rankings, is anxious for another shot at Flash Elorde's title. Narvaez, No. 7 or No. 8 in the rankings among Carlos Ortiz' contenders in the lightweight class, hopes to graduate to a championship bout.
Bizzarro has a 46-7-2 record dating back to 1958. In two 1964 starts he lost a decision to Kenny Lane and stopped Ricky Palmieri.
Narvaez, unbeaten since Dec. 16, 1961, stopped Tony LaBarbara and outpointed Luis Molina and Vincent Derado this year. His record is 19-1-1.
Bizzarro is Italia-born and Narvaez is a Puerto Rican living in New York.
The 10-round match will be carried on network (ABC) television at 9 p.m., EST.

Bickar's Steal Of Home Nets Litten's Pony Win

Bob Bickar stole home to score the winning run for Litten's in a tightly played 2-1 victory over Bright's Thursday at Dopley Field in one of two Pony League battles.
Burbick's set Woodbine back, 7-3, in another game.
Bright's took a 1-0 lead in the first inning but Litten's came back with two in the last of the sixth with Bickar tallying the winning run.
It was a tough game for Rex Campbell to lose. The right-hander gave up only one hit but his teammates committed four errors. Finley was the winning pitcher giving up three hits and fanning 14. Bickar also collected the only hit off Campbell.
Burbick's broke a 1-1 tie with three runs in the fourth inning to feature its victory over Woodbine. A home run by Berhard with one on in the sixth and Duffy's three hits paced the winners. Berhard also was the winning hurler allowing only two hits. He showed eight strikeouts but gave up six walks. Cunningham was the losing pitcher.

OFF THE RECORD

How Can I?
By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I repair a drawer knob that persists in turning and loosening?

A. You can keep this knob securely in place with a bit of steel wool shaped into a thin washer. Slip this over the bolt, between the knob and the front of the drawer, and it will provide just enough friction to prevent the knob from turning.

Q. How can I remove butter stains from fabrics?

A. Sponge out with carbon tetrachloride. When dry (a matter of seconds), sponge out the remaining traces of the stain that may be water-soluble (such as salt) with a solution of water and neutral detergent.

Q. How can I prevent nuts from rusting tight on bolts?

A. Dip the threaded end of the bolt into shellac before turning the nut onto it. The nut can then be removed later without any trouble.

Q. What is a good way to clean white sidewall tires?

A. You can do a good job with denatured alcohol to which a small amount of hydrogen peroxide has been added. Saturate a rag in this solution, and apply to the white sidewalls, allowing to penetrate for a minute or so, then repeating the application. Then rub the dirt off the sidewalls with a clean, alcohol-dampened cloth.

Q. How can I remove paint splatters from my linoleum floor if I have none of the ordinary paint remover on hand?

A. Fingernail polish remover is also a fine paint remover.

Junior Editors Quiz on—
AIR PRESSURE

QUESTION: When you turn over a bottle with water and a card on top, why doesn't the card fall off?

ANSWER: The card stays there because of something which is all around us which we hardly ever think about: air pressure. Air actually has weight, and the weight of the upper layers of air causes pressure on the air below. At sea level this pressure is 15 pounds per square inch. Drink lemonade through a straw and you are making the air pressure work. You suck in the air from inside the straw. There isn't enough air left to resist the lemonade which is pushed up from the pressure of the air outside. When Jock turned over his bottle, the water in it fell down and this left less air pressure above the water, for no new air could get in past the water. But the card is being pushed up by the air pressure outside, and as this is greater than the force of the weight of the water pulling down, the card stays in place. It's hard to realize how strong air pressure is. Above your shoulders at this moment is a column of air pressing down and this puts a load on your shoulders of about 2000 pounds—or one ton. We don't feel such pressures because they come from all sides and are equalized.

FOR YOU TO DO: Try the bottle experiment. Fill the bottle with water, put a card over the top, and turn upside down, holding the card. Now take away your hand and see if the experiment worked.

Jack Westfall of Norris, Tenn., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash, for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review, and you may win the weekly grand prize of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia.

Car Brushes Road Walker

A 47-year-old Rochester woman, walking in the middle of Route 30 in the Substation area, suffered bruises of the left leg when brushed by a car at 10:10 p. m. Thursday, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

A Warren truck driver escaped serious injury when a steel coil broke loose on his rig on Route 9 south of Salem yesterday, causing the tractor-trailer to overturn.

Mrs. Genevieve Wright of Rochester was treated at City Hospital after she was bumped by the auto operated by Hugh Campbell Jr., 32, of McDonald St.

Officers said Campbell was headed north when he spotted the woman in the middle of the road, and swerved in time to avoid hitting her directly.

Witnesses said she apparently was hitch-hiking.

James W. Scott, 27, of Warren suffered abrasions of the chest and elbow when his rig overturned while rounding a curve along Route 9 about two miles south of Salem yesterday afternoon.

The patrol said a chain broke on a steel coil on the trailer and rolled forward hitting the cab and causing the rig to upset.

Scott was charged with operating a vehicle with an insecure load.

Cuyahoga Falls Youth Wins In U.S. Spelling

SPELLING CHAMP. Becky Tryon of Stark County congratulates William Kerek of Cuyahoga Falls, national spelling bee champion, following the bee at Washington. Becky, sponsored by the Canton Repository, won the regional competition in which Columbiana County spellers participated. She was eliminated Wednesday. (UPI Telephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP)—Even a champion speller has to guess once in a while.

William Kerek, a 12-year-old seventh grader from Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, admitted today that he guessed at two of the 32 words he was asked to spell during the two-day 37th National Spelling bee and got both of them wrong.

He spelled the other 30 words correctly, however, including "geophagy" and "sycophant," the words which won him the championship and a first prize of $1,000 in cash and a weekend visit to the New York World's Fair.

The bespectacled 14-d, a straight "A" student who wants to be either an engineer or an architect, appeared outwardly calm as he spelled his way to victory in a toe-to-toe duel with another Ohioan, Robert O. Mathews, 13, of Gahanna, near Columbus.

But he told his father just before he won the tournament: "I've just got to make it today because I don't want to go through it all again."

A tournament winner is ineligible to compete again.

Attention focused on William, the oldest of four children of Mr. and Mrs. William Kerek, after he correctly spelled "huisache," the name of a southwestern shrub or tree, in Thursday's competition.

He breezed through his next 12 words until he stumbled on "idiocracy," which means peculiarity of constitution. Robert, then the only other contender, also stumbled on the word. William spelled it "ideocracy" while Robert spelled it "ideocracy."

William also guessed wrong on "peristalsis," spelling it with an "o" instead of an "a." It means succeeding waves of contractions along the intestine walls. Robert then spelled it correctly but the contest was all over when he slipped on the next word—"geophagy," which means eating dirt. William spelled that correctly and iced the bee by spelling "sycophant," which means hanger-on.

Anchovies include several small fish related to the herring. The best-known species lives in the Mediterranean, is only a few inches long, but has a strong flavor much relished by epicures.

Gene Raymond Bell, 1242 Chaffin St., was fined $15 and costs for speeding; George Wilcox Jr. of M.C. Route 22, was fined $15 and costs for lack of tail lights on his vehicle, and James R. Graham of Chester was fined $10 and costs for failure to file for registration.

Wilmer Rudd Wilson, 914 N. Market St., East Palestine, was fined $15 and costs each on two charges of failure to stop in the assured clear distance. He was involved in two rear-end collisions recently.

Raymond Bergman of West Newton, Pa., was fined $50 and costs for leaving the scene of an accident, sentenced to three months in jail and was given a year's license suspension. He was charged after his car struck another while passing on Route 30 near West Point and he was later taken into custody.

Power Halt Set In Chester Area

Power service will be interrupted in the eastern section of Chester Sunday as part of a conversion of electric lines, the Monongahela Power Co. announced today.

Power will be off from 1 to 5 p. m. in the area from the Chaney Service Station at 8th St. along Pan Ave. to the Fox Nursing Home, and toward the Ohio River, including Plutus, Neptune and Phoenix Aves.

Walter Jordan, Chester manager for the utility, said power will also be off at the Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co. pottery. The Harker China Co., T. K. Roofing Co. and nursing home will not be affected, he said.

The conversion concludes a general improvement of power facilities in the Chester area, changing from 7,200-volt lines to 12,000-volt circuits, Jordan said.

Leetonian Will Head Mayors' Association

LISBON — Mayor Ralph Kennedy of Leetonia was elected president of the Columbiana County Mayors' Association at a reorganization meeting Thursday night in the Village Hall. He succeeds Mayor Dean Cranmer of Salem.

Ohio Completes Plans To Lease School Property

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Negotiations have been completed for the state to lease 1,760 acres of school land in Ross County to the Pure Oil Co., State Auditor Roger W. Tracy has announced.

He said Thursday he has received a check for $1,760 as an advance rental payment for oil and gas rights to the land in Colerain Township in the northeastern section of the county.

The auditor said since the agreement involves land set aside for school purposes, revenues derived must be invested by the State Sinking Fund Commission and the interest turned over to Colerain Township for school purposes.

In addition, the commission will receive, subject to the success or failure of drilling operations, royalties equal to one-eighth of the market price of the oil or gas produced. These proceeds also would be invested for the township by the commission.

Ruby Starts Taking Tranquilizer Pills

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Condemned slayer Jack Ruby has started taking tranquilizer pills recommended by psychiatrists for what they call his "psychotic depression," a doctor said Thursday.

Ruby, 33, under death sentence for killing accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, refused the first mind-easing drugs earlier this week.

A source close to the Ruby family said the former night club operator claimed the pills were poison.

Judge Joe B. Brown authorized mental treatment for Ruby in his jail cell while he decides whether to order a sanity hearing. The judge has called a show-cause hearing with lawyers June 19.
